

Roosevelt Signs Farm Mortgage Moratorium And Railroad Pension

Other Important "Must" Bills Before the President Include The New Tax Measure and the Guffey Coal Bill.

A NEW NRA

Legal Experts Studying Varied Approaches To The Problem of Writing a New NRA.

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP).—President Roosevelt gave approval today to the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium bill and the railroad pension act, both designed to replace New Deal legislation previously killed by the Supreme Court.

The measure permits debt-burdened farmers to go into federal court and obtain moratoriums of as much as three years on their mortgages. During that time their property, in effect, would be under court control.

Farmers are allowed to remain in possession of their land during the moratorium but must pay a "fair" rental, either every six months or at the end of each year, as the court may decide.

At the end of the moratorium, property which has been protected by it must be re-appraised by the courts or on court order.

The farmers then may clear their land by payment of the appraised value.

The pension act sets up a new rail pension system but provides no finances for it. Another bill on the President's desk would levy taxes of 3 1/2 per cent each on rail payrolls and employees' incomes to pay the pensions.

The President's desk was piled high with bills passed by congress which must be studied and signed or vetoed.

Among them are some of the important "must" bills, including the new tax measure and the Guffey bituminous coal stabilization bill, approved by congress just before adjournment. Mr. Roosevelt is trying to clear them away and leave for his home in Hyde Park, N. Y., by Saturday night.

Studying New NRA

Disclosure was made today that NRA legal experts are studying varied approaches to the problem of writing a new NRA within constitutional limits.

They already have started drafting suggested measures. Some of these probably will be passed around to congressmen for study. Just before adjournment the President requested the legislators to study the situation with a view to enacting a new recovery law.

There was little activity on Capitol Hill today, but the few remaining senators engaged in debate over the proposal of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, to outlaw one-man filibusters in the Senate.

Many senators predicted the move to limit debate and curb filibusters such as Senator Long (D-La.) conducted on adjournment night, would be unsuccessful. Senator Dorah (R-Ia.) said "free debate has its evils, but controlled debate is intolerable." Senator Norris (R-Neb.) was one who thought Robinson's proposal would be adopted.

Downtown job hunters were trying to find places on the new agencies created by Congress. The Social Security Board was one of those besieged. More than 500 letters of application are received daily in addition to the 200 persons applying in person at the board's temporary office.

Deny Shipping Munitions

Tokyo, Aug. 29 (AP).—A government spokesman today denied that Japanese munitions had been shipped to Ethiopia and insisted there was no indication of plans for future shipments. Inquiries in authoritative military and industrial quarters supported the spokesman's denial. The spokesman deprecated an Italian suggestion that Japan was sympathetic to Italy's Ethiopian policy. The sympathy, he said, was "confined to the Rome officially inspired press."

Bombers Off To Africa

Naples, Aug. 29 (AP).—The steamer Ircania will sail for East Africa tomorrow carrying 200 bombers and scouting planes. It was made known today. The steamer Africa sailed today with five reconnaissance and bombing squadrons, each consisting of 26 officers and 40 aviators. Twin brothers of 18, Antonio and Vincenzo Lucerna, were accepted as drummer boys in the 24th October division, the youngest recruits so far accepted.

British Warned to "Go Slow" By Italy; Kellogg Pact Last Hope

Haile Selassie Losing Faith in Geneva, Prays For Victory in Battle

Addis Ababa, Aug. 29 (AP).—Slowly losing faith in Geneva, Emperor Haile Selassie today prayed for victory on the field of battle.

"If it is God's will that we must try our souls against the Italians, let us pray in sadness for victory," he said. "He shall not fail us."

From his palace window he looked down upon a caravan laden with cartridges and modern rifles setting out for Wollega province to equip 80,000 Galla tribesmen. The Gallas are noted, along with Danakils, as the fiercest warriors in Haile Selassie's empire. The caravan was headed by General Makonnen Demis, the husband of the emperor's only niece—a bond which seals a once deadly feud Demis had with the emperor.

With the rainy season nearing its end, the emperor is wasting no time girding his half million warriors for conflict. He himself will signal the start of the new war.

Attired in his imperial robes with a lion skin cape and a golden crown fringed with a lion's mane, he will proceed through the streets of the capital. He will be attended by the highest chieftains wearing lion skins, carrying shields of hippopotamus hide and brandishing medieval spears.

"All men who possess their manhood, follow me," the emperor will cry and bill fists and drums will dash the word throughout his mountain kingdom.

Two solid trainloads of Ethiopian soldiers will leave Addis Ababa Sunday for an undisclosed destination, presumably to reinforce the emperor's frontier in the vicinity that is expected to see the "second battle of Adua."

The desertion of several thousand Somali tribesmen from the Italian army in October was confirmed today by an Austrian commander of Ethiopian troops in Goriokul. Major Joseph Jonker.

Major Jonker, now in this capital, said that when he left the front a fortnight ago that at least 2,000 Somalis had come from the Italian front line by night to join the Ethiopian forces.

The emperor, he said, included machine gunners who brought Italian machine guns on mules and horses under cover of darkness. They are now teaching the

Kellogg Pact Stands As the Final Bulwark To Maintain Peace

London, Aug. 29 (AP).—The Kellogg peace pact, signed in Paris amid many enthusiastic declarations that it outlawed war, today stands as the final bulwark against Italo-Ethiopian war in the view of the British government.

It is learned from a source close to the government that Great Britain, should all other efforts fail and Mussolini invade Ethiopia, hopes the United States and France will jointly summon for consultation all the signatories of this instrument to bring the full moral force of the world down upon Mussolini's head as an international outlaw and destroyer of world peace.

The British government has not yet formally approached the United States and France in the Kellogg pact matter, but has been extremely interested in the recent references of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull to the pact and is hopeful that as a final resort Roosevelt will take initiative action to keep the instrument from becoming just a scrap of paper.

The highest British officials feel that while there is no machinery to force the Kellogg pact signatories to a joint condemnation of Italy, all its many signers would nevertheless have an overpowering moral effect in awakening the Italian people toward forsaking Mussolini to retrace his steps.

The mounting tension, particularly in the Mediterranean, was demonstrated today in Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's sudden shift of plans in cutting short by a fortnight his already interrupted holiday in France to return next Wednesday. The British fleet in the Mediterranean is rumored to have been ordered to move to the Suez canal. At the same time reports from Rome stated that "military measures" which Mussolini revealed the Italian government has already planned to oppose any sanctions, include the concentration of the Italian fleet in the same zone.

Coincidentally with reports that it does have consulted his naval strategists in regard to possible foreign directly opposite Malta, came word that British troop maneuvers near Malta were extended to last a full month instead of the ordinary few days.

The war office ordered all senior members of the army council to remain in London until further notice.

With the Italian Army, Bolzano, Italy, Aug. 29 (AP).—Warning to Great Britain to "go slow" at the League of Nations Council session for consideration of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict next Wednesday was seen by political circles today in the communiqué of the Italian cabinet setting forth its case against Ethiopia.

After the extraordinary meeting here near the mimic battle field, Il Duce's cabinet stood before the world with: (1) An admission to Great Britain that sanctions mean serious trouble; (2) A determination to attack Ethiopia at the council session; and, (3) Fundamental economic decrees to finance a war with the African empire.

The cabinet gave assurance that British imperial rights would not be touched by the Italian program, but political circles found of great importance a paragraph in a communiqué which disclosed that Italy had already decided upon the military measures it would take in case of sanctions.

"In any event," said the communiqué, "the Fascist government fulfills its precise duty by making known to the Italian people that the problem of sanctions has been examined by the highest military authorities of the regime under all aspects and that we reserve eventual sanctions of a warlike nature, decisions and measures necessary to face them have been taken already some time ago."

What the military measures were, were not disclosed here officially, but well-informed circles say they include:

Believe President Will Make The Next Move In Dispute With The Soviet

Observers See Probability of Blunt Warning That Relations Will Be Severed Unless Russia Curbs Activities.

ACTION IN MOSCOW

Resolutions of Internationale Congress Call For a United Drive Against Capitalism.

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP).—President Roosevelt was believed to be ready today to make the next move in the Soviet-American dispute over Communist propaganda.

The nature of the move was kept a secret. Observers believed, however, that one local probability was a blunt warning that friendly diplomatic relations between the two nations would be severed unless Soviet Russia curbed activities of the third (Communist) Internationale.

Plans for intensified Communist activity in the United States were discussed at a recent meeting of the Internationale in Moscow. This prompted the United States to accuse the Soviet government of "flagrant violations" of pledges to curb interference in American affairs. The Soviets rejected the protest note on the grounds the Russian government had no connection with the Internationale.

Though secretary of state Hull has been conferring with President Roosevelt, neither he nor any other official would comment as to the course to be taken. It was believed, however, that the president would act within a day or two.

Drive Against Capitalism

Moscow, Aug. 29 (AP).—Resolutions by the recent third Communist Internationale Congress, calling for a united front drive against capitalism, were published today, four days after the United States protest against activities of the Congress.

The resolution instructed the Communist parties in individual countries to strive to bring the working classes "closer to the revolutionary assumption of power."

They declared the unwavering final aim of the Communists was the establishment of Soviet regimes, but said that until the time was ripe for it, the Communist parties should throw their support to movements designed to replace "Bourgeois" governments with governments of a proletarian united front.

A resolution drafted by M. Hercole, an Italian delegate, and passed unanimously, said that a British attempt to build up a balance of power against the United States is "accelerating the outbreak of a world imperialistic war."

"Communists are fighting to dispel the illusion that war can be avoided under capitalist regimes," said Hercole's resolution. "They are devoting their efforts to avert war but, despite these efforts, a new world imperialistic war breaks out, they will strive to guide the opposition of war into a new struggle designed to change an imperialistic war into a civil war against the Fascist and incendiary Bourgeoisie and to overthrow capitalism."

The Congress instructed Communists not to attempt sabotage in case war breaks out.

Such methods as "refusing to do military service, obstructing mobilization, and committing sabotage of munitions factories" was considered, Hercole's resolution said, "as only bringing harm to the proletarians."

Curtis For London

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP).—Former vice-president Curtis declared today for Governor Landon of Kansas to be the 1936 Republican presidential nominee. His position was given in an interview in which he denied published reports (not carried by The Associated Press) alleging him on the side of Colonel Frank Knox of Illinois, "I am for Governor Landon of Kansas. If he is a candidate," said Curtis, himself a Kansan.

Expression of Sympathy

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP).—Secretary Hull made a formal call at the Belgian Embassy early today to express to Prince Eugene de Selys, the Charge d'Affaires, the condolence and sympathy of the United States in the death of Queen Astrid. President Roosevelt and the Secretary of State also will send messages of condolence to the King of the Belgians and the Belgian Government.

Search For Lost Pilot

Fairbanks, Alaska, Aug. 29 (AP).—Three airplane pilots winged over the White River country north of Dawson today seeking the source of four wavering smoke columns in hope they might be distress signals of Pilot Arthur F. Hines and three passengers who vanished August 19. The plane was the first landable one since Hines' plane disappeared on a flight from Dawson to Fairbanks.

Queen Astrid Of Belgium Killed In Auto Accident At Lucerne, King Injured

Was Royal Sweetheart To Large Part of World

(By The Associated Press)

Glamorous memories of Royal love-making mingled with sad recollections of tragedy today as news of the accidental death of Queen Astrid of the Belgians was borne around the world.

The Queen, who perished at her husband's side as they were motor-ing near Kussnacht, Switzerland, was beloved in her own Sweden and her adopted land of Belgium as the lovely girl who had taken her place as housewife and queen at Brussels after the tragic death of her father-in-law, King Albert of Belgium. The latter fell while climbing a mountain last year.

To a large part of the rest of the world, she was the royal sweetheart whose wedding had drawn multitudes of the world's most glittering names. Before her marriage, the names of the Prince of Wales and his unmarried brothers swirled with those of other princely and "eligible" bachelors in the rumors which their impatient subjects told and retold as they awaited announcement of Astrid's engagement.

When the then Princess Astrid was betrothed to the then Prince Leopold of Belgium, the Belgian King and Queen called newspapermen to the palace to announce the event with the simplicity which marked the characters not only of the parents but of the popular young Princess. At the same time they described her as the world at large has to come to know her, as "a cultured girl of great simplicity" who would "adapt herself to the national life of Belgium."

The couple's chauffeur, who had been riding in the rear seat while his master drove, suffered broken legs and possible internal injuries. Physicians said he might die.

Attendants who followed in another car said they saw their monarch turn his head for an instant, apparently admiring the mountain scenery, as he drove at a rate of between 50 and 55 miles an hour along the sunny road beside the lake called "Vier Waldstatter See."

The American touring car swung to the side of the road, hit an eight-inch curb, and rammed into a tree, then rolled into the shallow lake just eight feet from the road.

All three of the occupants were thrown out of the automobile.

The queen was thrown against another tree, fracturing her skull. The king's face was cut by the smashing windshield. Momentarily stunned, he picked himself up and went to the side of the Swedish princess he married nearly nine years ago.

Dies in Her King's Arms

Leopold held Astrid in his arms, kissed her head and again, and begged her to speak to him. She barely moved. It was impossible to tell whether she recognized him.

The cure of a village church just outside Kussnacht came to them. He administered extreme unction.

Then, as the king still held her close, Astrid died.

The king himself straightened her body and smoothed her clothes.

The royal attendants, a gentleman and lady-in-waiting and the chauffeur of the car in which they had been riding, covered the still form with their coats.

The accident occurred at about 9:15 a. m.

The queen's death in Switzerland left motherless three children: Josephine Charlotte, aged 6, Baudoin, 3, heir-apparent to the throne, and Albert, born in June of last year.

The full extent of the king's injuries were not immediately determined. A physician said he feared Leopold's jaw might be fractured.

The doctor stated that, in any case, a fracture or a shock to the jaw would doubtless account for the king's inability to explain the cause of the accident himself.

The 33-year-old king's grief over the death of his wife was such that none presumed to question him further.

Leaned Over To Look At Map.

Later, however, he was able to talk. He told members of his entourage that he had taken his eyes off the road to glance at a map the queen was holding. He said she was sitting in the front seat beside him with the chauffeur in the rear.

"I leaned over to look at the map," the members of the party said the king told them. "I looked only a second, and when I looked again at the road, the car was almost on top of a tree."

The king said both he and the queen were thrown out of the car at the first shock and that the queen's head struck a tree, fracturing her skull.

The royal attendants said the king's automobile rebounded, struck a second tree, then hurtled into the lake with the chauffeur still inside.

The latter climbed out and waded ashore with only minor cuts.

The attendants, whose car was about one minute behind the royal couple, found the king and queen lying by the side of the road.

Physicians immediately telephoned to Kussnacht for help. A doctor arrived within five minutes after the queen had died.

Leopold kissed the dead Astrid once more, then was taken away to the doctor's car to have his wounds dressed. Afterwards he was taken to the villa Hohenlohe to which, at the same time, the queen's body was taken in another car.

After her king had gone, Astrid's body lay beside the fatal tree 540 feet covered with coats. It was watched for a full hour by the hunched members of the household, peasants, villagers, and gendarmes. Then it was removed by an undertaker.

THROWN FROM CAR

King Slightly Injured, Chauffeur Who Was Riding in The Rear Seat, May Die.

Kussnacht, Switzerland, Aug. 29.—Astrid, 29-year-old Queen of the Belgians, was fatally injured today when the automobile her husband, King Leopold, was driving, swerved off a country road and hit a tree.

She died within five minutes in her king's arms and with his lips on hers.

The king was only slightly injured. The couple's chauffeur, who had been riding in the rear seat while his master drove, suffered broken legs and possible internal injuries. Physicians said he might die.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By Associated Press

Make It Napoleon
New York—Anyone in New York State may become John D. Rockefeller or Mae West, Henry Ford or Jeta Garbo.

The New York Law Journal pointed out in today's issue that under the statutes anyone may change his name without going to court for authorization. The substitute name is as legal as the original, and there are no prior rights or other restrictions hampering the selection.

The Hard Way
Pittsburgh, Pa.—A. J. Diebold, local industrialist, sent his tee shot from the 160-yard No. 14 at the Pittsburgh Field Club flying toward the Shadyside Academy grounds, flanking the fairway. Halfway, the ball hooked sharply, curved into "fair" territory and dropped on the green hole-high. Then it trickled down a marcel wave.

It was a hole-in-one.

Pocket-picking Auto
Lancaster, Pa.—George Dandre, 34, of Brooklyn, N. Y., suffered a fractured leg in a race track accident and discovered on his way to a hospital that he had lost his pocketbook. Sympathetic friends searched the track without success.

The wallet was found, with cash intact, in the pan beneath the engine of the racer which struck him.

Not a Lipstick Job
San Francisco—The business of spreading $825,000 worth of paint—enough to cover 20,000 five-room dwellings—began on the Oakland-San Francisco bridge today.

The bridge will require 200,000 gallons of paint. Four coats will be spread, three of ordinary lead paint, the top one of aluminum.

Secretary Wallace is quoted as saying that if it hadn't been for the production control program pork would be even higher today than it is. Then burning the pigs wasn't a success after all.

Engineering compilations show that 246,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity will be required during the building of the Colorado river aqueduct.

GARDINER

Gardiner, Aug. 29—Miss Gladys Rhinehart was a guest last week of her sister, Miss Marie Rhinehart, who is spending the summer on Long Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wright motored to Cos Cob, Conn., on Wednesday.

Mrs. Margaret Carroll and daughter of Modena were callers at the home of Mrs. Thomas Butler on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ose of Poughkeepsie were week-end guests of Mrs. Ose's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Everts.

Mrs. Lee McIntosh of Dumont, N. J., is spending the week with her sister, Miss Belle Lader.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Mulligan and two children have returned to their home in New York city after spending a few weeks with Mrs. Mulligan's brother and sister in law, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Donahue.

The Rev. and Mrs. Theodore Bayles of New Brunswick were guests of Mrs. Bayles's sister, Mrs. Esther Borchering, a few days of last week and attended the community picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kildorf of Napanoch were guests of Mrs. Kildorf's mother, Mrs. Julia DuBois, on Saturday.

Edwin Jayne is spending the week with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jayne, of Florida.

Charles Hall of Lake Mohonk is visiting his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James George.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Curry of New Paltz are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Curry's mother, Mrs. Anna Rosekrans, before leaving for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they spend their winters.

Miss Rose Pizzuto and friends of Arlington, N. J., spent the week-end with Miss Pizzuto's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pizzuto.

R. H. Hamilton and George Jayne of Lake Mohonk were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jayne on Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Wright and son, Gilbert, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. James Wright of Canajoharie, N. Y.

Mrs. George Everts and Mrs. Lawrence Upright, accompanied by Mrs. Edward Ose of Poughkeepsie, spent Monday in Kingston.

Mrs. Etta Butties and son, Merritt, and Mrs. Roy Every visited Mrs. Butties' son-in-law, Oliver Dunbar on Sunday at the Kingston Hospital, where he was operated for appendicitis.

Mrs. John Lucy and Mrs. John Lyons and three children were supper guests of Mrs. Lucy's sister, Mrs. Margaret Carroll of Montgomery on Monday.

Mrs. Theodore Wright took Mrs. Charles Wright Jr. to her home in West Hempstead, L. I. after a visit in Gardiner, and will remain for a week's visit.

The boys of St. Agnes camp will give their annual minstrel show and dance in Moran's hall on Friday evening, August 30, for the benefit of St. Charles church. There will be a chorus of 150 boys. Keenan's Royal Vagabonds will furnish music for dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Latchford and children, Mr. and Mrs. James

Donahue and children and Miss Eleanor Powers have returned to their homes in Jersey City after spending a month in the Lucy house. Mrs. Latchford and Mrs. Donahue were formerly the Misses Lauretta and Marguerite Powers, and they have enjoyed renewing old acquaintance here, where they lived for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. George Burele of Newark were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson McElhenny.

Doc Quinlan of Fort Montgomery arrived in town on Friday evening and gave a free show and medicine talk.

Edward Boland returned to his home in New Paltz last week from the Benedictine Hospital, Kingston. His many friends hope soon to see him on the job at Moran's store.

The large still which was seized at Sicep Rocks on the Simpson farm on Saturday, was dismantled and destroyed early part of this week by a large force of Federal employees.

James Moran has accepted a position as relief investigator of sections of Ulster county.

Miss Caroline Eberhard of Rosendale is a guest of Miss Marie Majestic.

The community picnic held under the auspices of the Reformed Church school in Loukuski's wood was a very pleasant affair. A bountiful lunch, furnished by all, was served cafeteria style. The program was given under the direction of Mrs. Floyd McKinstry. It was called "Pawnee Joe's Medicine Show". Those participating were Theodore Wright, Mrs. L. Dunsberry, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McKinstry, Dave McCandlish, Miss Dorothy Fleming, Mrs. Raymond DuBois and Harold Marks.

After demonstrating the medicine several bottles were sold, and the proceeds given to the church school. The "quintets" were also exhibited and Duk Borchering, Mrs. Mayskens, Allan Crispell, James George and Malcolm Vandemark sure made fine cook babies. The instrumental music was given by Mrs. Dunsberry and Harold Marks with their accordion and banjo. Miss Fleming had charge of the vocal music. John Gibbons planned the sports program which consisted of potato races, three-legged race, sack race, needle threading contest, horseshoe pitching and ball game. Frank DuBois and Florin Ruger were in charge of the ice cream and soft drinks stand, from which all the children were given a treat.

Clambake and Field Day
The annual clambake and field day given by the trustees of the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church will be held at Forsyth Park Labor Day, Monday, September 2. The bake starts at 2 p. m. If stormy the bake will be held at the church on Franklin street.

At Legion Convention
Eugene Freer, commander of Kingston Post No. 150, American Legion, left for Rochester on Wednesday night. Mr. Freer is a delegate from the Ulster County Legion to the annual convention of the American Legion, Department of New York, which will be in session today, Friday and Saturday.

WORLD TENSE AS LEAGUE SURVEYS ITALO-ETHIOPIAN CRISIS

A tense world awaits the action of the League of Nations on the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, fearing an inevitable war if a settlement is not reached. Much attention has centered on the diplomats above, who, as members of the League council, will receive the report of conciliators on the problem. France, represented by Pierre Laval (center) is split between allegiance to England and Italy. England, represented by Anthony Eden (right), has sought continuously to effect a peaceful settlement, while Italy, represented by Baron Aloisi (left), has so far refused a peaceful solution. Russia, represented by Maxim Litvinoff (lower left), through its governmental policy disapproves of colonization wars, such as Italy has expressed intentions of waging, while the Little Entente, represented by Eduard Beneš (lower right) has been vitally interested in the question, its welfare being generally tied up in that of Europe's larger nations. The background setting is of the League meeting hall in Geneva. (Associated Press Photos)

Welding

... the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them
together.

... and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco...

That is just what we do in making
CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish.
When these tobaccos are welded

together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobac-
cos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder
and better-tasting cigarette.

THE RIGHT TO WORK

The right to strike is one that must be held sacred. It is one of the fundamental rights of man, as important, perhaps, as the right not to be imprisoned for debt and somewhat interwoven with that right. But there is also a right not to strike and this was exemplified the other day when a body of 115 workmen out of a striking body of 143 marched to the plant and asserted their right to go back to work. These were not scabs, but the regular men who had long been employed at the plant.

These men would doubtless have been glad to obtain the advantages demanded by the few who remained on strike. But they realized that it was better to have a job in hand than a few gains on paper. After they had been received back in their places, most of the others followed them.

There are more rights in the American scheme of things than narrow folk sometimes realize. The right of a majority to acquire what it votes for is inherent in democracy. When a majority of workmen in any given mill or factory really believe a strike is necessary, there must be sound reason for it. The situation needs to be met by sane arbitration and not by arrogance or violence on either side. When a majority demands their right to work, the strike idea may quite reasonably fade away from that locality, and the minority should recognize the fact.

NO MORE DOLE

Abandonment of the federal dole by November 1, announced early in August by Relief Administrator Hopkins, is an admirable slogan but may be an impossible ideal. Even so, it deserves the fullest possible support. The federal government, with its $4,000,000,000 work relief fund, is trying to take over all the employable workers now idle, leaving the state and local governments, supplemented by private charity, no care for the rest. The wages paid, as a rule, are rather low, but the beneficiaries can probably live on them. The pouring of so vast a sum of money into circulation means a watering of the economic grass-roots that should help mightily to revive business.

Here is the greatest priming of the employment motor in history. The federal priming is to continue until the end of next June. By that time the government relief funds will be exhausted, and the administration assumes that the country can carry on thereafter from the impetus given, without its direct help. We shall know more about that next summer. Meanwhile attention will be centered on these next two crucial months. If the combined effort fails, then the federal government as usual will have to take up the slack. For every reason it is important for minor political units, and for private philanthropy and business enterprise, to help along the big push. If it fails we shall be in the dole business indefinitely.

TAX JUSTICE

The executive council of the Federation of Labor makes a strong plea for abolishing all state sales taxes as soon as possible. President William Green, supporting such action, says truly:

"These taxes are bearing down heavily upon the laboring people. They transfer the burden of relief to the poor, even to the unemployed. Millions of dollars are being collected from people who are unable to pay."

It should be apparent to thinking people, and admitted by fair-minded people, that a sales tax is by nature the unfairness of all our forms of taxation, because it takes a larger part of the poor family's income than the rich family's. The evil grows as state after state resorts to this seemingly easy method of raising cash for current expenses.

If sales taxes go, however, it will mean heavier income taxes—real estate already has all it can bear. And in switching taxes from sales to income, there is another important bit of justice and wise policy to be taken care of, which Congress has evaded. The high brackets naturally should pay more, but the lower brackets should be extended to take in many people now exempt, all paying a little. As matters stand, the middle classes bear the heaviest tax burden.

RED MAN'S OIL

Uncle Sam has been fair to some of the Indians, even if he has treated them shabbily on the whole. The Osages in Oklahoma have got their oil royalties right along, ever since oil was discovered on their lands in 1901. Even in the depth of the depression the payments shrank only to about $500 a year apiece for the tribesmen. In good times their "head-rights" rose above $1,000 a month.

It may be as hard for a rich Indian as for a rich white man to see his income dwindle. Many of those redskins were perilously near relief rolls. But now they're up to a level of $2,000 a year, which is doing a heap better than most of our pale-faces. And they're planning to do just what the rest of us would do—buy new cars and drive around. The little tribe has collected, so far, petroleum royalties totalling $250,000,000. It isn't very long since all North America could have been bought for that. How time and wealth fly!

TO REDUCE WEIGHT

Although health writers speak frequently of the danger of overweight there is no question but that most overweighters are influenced to reduce their weight because of their pride. When he or she looks in the mirror or sees the outline of the figure in shop windows the mind is usually made up that the excess weight must go.

And all that is needed to remove this excess weight is the will to do it. This doesn't mean that the food intake must be cut in half and hard vigorous exercise taken; this may cause illness or even death. What is really needed is a system of diet—cutting down on liquids, fats and starches, eating plenty of meat or eggs, and taking light exercise, at first such as walking, and gradually increasing this from week to week.

Now fats, starches and liquids must be taken if the body is to do its work properly but the amount of fat—butter, cream, fat meat, eggs, yolks—can be cut in half quite readily. Likewise the real starchy foods—sugar, bread, potatoes, pastry—can be cut down by one half.

Liquids are needed to keep all the body cells healthy because every body cell (like a little fish) must be surrounded by water, but they can be reduced in amount by the simple method of taking just half the quantity usually taken. Thus if two cups of tea, coffee, or other fluid is used at meal time one cup should be used. Every time the thirst demands water a drink may be taken but just half the usual quantity.

But it is really the exchanging of leafy vegetables (vegetables that are bulky but not rich in food value) for the more solid or rich starch foods (sugar, honey, candy, molasses, potatoes, cereals, macaroni, preserves, marmalade) that is the secret of safe weight reduction.

The vegetables that are bulky, satisfy the appetite, fill the stomach and will not put on fat are: Cabbage, lettuce, asparagus, cauliflower, radishes, watercress, brussels sprouts, celery, tomatoes, spinach. It is these leafy, bulky, but poor in food value vegetables that are on the lists of most reducing diets. It is because with these bulky vegetables that collapse and even death in some cases has occurred.

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

CHAPTER 14
 ABOUT JUDITH

"I'M SORRY," Emily said finally, laying a hand on his. "I wish I could say I'd marry you, but I can't. I don't want to marry anyone, yet, and I don't love you that way."

"But you do like me? And there's no one else?"

"No," she said. "There's no one else." Nothing, she thought, but the memory of an ecstasy that was very different from this—an ecstasy that hadn't endured.

"I'm perfectly willing to wait," he said eagerly, as if she hadn't known that "I've always loved you and I always will, but I don't want to marry you. I just wanted you to know it, and I hoped that— you might love me."

"I'm sorry," she said again. "I wish I could say I did."

"Will you try?" he pleaded.

After all, loving Edwin would make existence a much simpler thing. Loving Edwin would probably solve all the problems that were tormenting her. If you loved him perhaps you wouldn't notice his little peculiarities, or, noticing them, wouldn't mind.

"Yes," she said at last. "I'll try. But I'd rather not talk about it any more for a long time. If I ever find that I can care about you, I promise to tell you."

"And you aren't—mad with me for telling you? Nothing will be changed?"

"No," she said slowly, "nothing will be changed."

She wondered in sudden despair if anything would ever be changed.

He got out of the car then, and went with her to the doorway. "It's been wonderful to be with you," he said haltingly. "May I see you tomorrow night?"

Tomorrow and tomorrow. But if you didn't see Edwin, what else was there? "Yes," she said.

He held her hand for several seconds, but to her infinite relief he made no move to take her in his arms. He would keep his word scrupulously, she knew.

Then he went back to his car and drove away.

HER predictions to Jack Cushing were justified. They organized a bridge club of two tables that was to meet once a week for luncheon.

It was decided that everyone should put up twenty-five cents a meeting, which was to be given to the winner instead of a prize.

"But for heaven's sake don't say anything about it," Eleanor Mobley had laughed, "or our fond parents would have a stroke. They'd have no objection to our winning a box of powder that didn't match our complexion, or a pair of stockings that didn't fit, but this is gambling!"

Everyone laughed, and no one mentioned it at home.

Even the girl scout troop materialized. Emily, "having nothing else to do," they said, was the ideal person to take charge.

She accepted the charge, and spent hours learning to tie the six kinds of knots and to make a fire with no paper and only one match. The girls adored her, and wanted to spend all the time that wasn't taken up with school and scouting at her house, but the tasks didn't end there. Their devotion was soothing to her pride.

She rebelled at the Woman's Club. They needed "new blood and new enthusiasm," they said, but she decided that there were plenty of years ahead for that.

And so she laughingly resisted France's attempts to enlist her interest.

"This was to be my year of play, darling! Before long I'll have to go back to Ardmore to get some rest. Give me a year or two of grace and then I'll give up frivolity and turn my attention to civic problems."

And France, who had the gift of yielding in relatively unimportant things the better to win in important ones, had dropped the subject.

Occasionally she "helped out" at the Elston Public Library. The library was small and struggling, but she loved the contact with books and with people who came to read them.

A contact love of books was as strong a tie as children or golf, and she managed, very tactfully, to introduce a few discriminating readers to her own favorite authors, thereby earning their lasting gratitude. If boredom ever overwhelmed her she had decided that the library might be the best escape that Elston had to offer.

She had given up for the present the idea of leaving home, not because of France's arguments, but because of Jeffrey's obvious delight at having her there.

They had always loved each other deeply and almost wordlessly, but now they had discovered companionship, and Jeffrey's pleasure was accomplishing what France's insistence might never have achieved alone.

The two of them took long walks, talking eagerly of the things that she was discovering and that Jeffrey had known for a long time, and it seemed to him that he was happier than he had ever been before.

And because there were no crises to divide the time into periods, days slipped evenly and swiftly past, and the year of play was half over before she realized that it had begun.

EARLY in March Judith wrote one of her characteristic scrawls. Judith's letters arrived about once a year, a really remarkable record, she herself admitted.

There had been the letter acknowledging Emily's wedding present, and containing a vivid and telegraphic description of her home and her husband. Aubrey was a lamb, and probably the only person alive who would put up with a crazy Carroll.

The place was heavenly, and much more scientifically run than Carroll. Aubrey even managed, with farm prices what they were, to make the place pay.

"You'd like him," Judith added carelessly. "He reads things: can you imagine it? Not just market reports, but books by people I never even heard of."

In this letter, her fourth in more than three years, Judith had been ill.

"I'm still pale and interesting-looking, but the state won't last long. I'm sure. Why won't you come and see me? Of course being in school was a wonderful alibi, but I should think they could spare you for a little while now. Can't you come next month?"

Emily wanted to go, but France, remembering Judith's demoralizing influence, managed to circumvent her. It necessitated a counter-offer of a trip to New York with Jeffrey, and Jeffrey, an unconscious party to the conspiracy, was so eager for her company and so boyishly elated over the prospect that she accompanied him from a sense of duty.

She enjoyed the trip, even while she thought regretfully of the pleasure of seeing Judith again. But before too long, she hoped, she might escape from Elston, and while she stayed she wanted to do everything in her power to please France and Jeffrey.

It was Friday afternoon in early September, and the Board of Control of the Elston Public Library was holding its monthly meeting.

Emily looked absently out the window: it was bad enough to be a librarian on a breathlessly hot day like this, without having to attend Board meetings. She wondered for the twentieth time why they insisted upon her presence; invariably she took issue with them and invariably they voted her down. Perhaps they insisted merely for the sadistic pleasure of voting her down.

The chairman was deploring the fact that the library's circulation had decreased. He was, to be quite frank, at a loss to explain it.

"It seems quite obvious to me," Emily had to speak, in spite of the heat. She had restrained herself on this point for months. "As long as you regulate the entire action list on the basis of whether a book is proper reading for a child of fifteen, you can't expect anybody over fifteen to read it."

The Board looked pained. They had settled this question of immorality books for good, and Emily was bringing it up again.

"That isn't altogether the measure of our action," the chairman said coldly. "It's rather the moral tone of the books that we consider."

"But so many of the most powerful novels, new as well as old," Emily said, "have a doubtful moral tone. After all, grown people should be allowed to choose their own reading."

Tomorrow, Emily wishes one more attempt to break the charm of immorality.

Scientists Turn to Gaspé Seeking Site Of Norsemen's Gangplank to New World

While observance this summer of the 400th anniversary of Jacques Cartier's second voyage to the new world spotlights him as first to discover New France, scientists are turning to Gaspé in hope of solving the riddle of Europe's first contact with North America. Bailed in Newfoundland and New England, Gaspé cliffs which form famed bird sanctuary at Percé. Upper right, Percé Rock, celebrated geological wonder. Below, rugged Gaspé coast which may have been New World sighted by Europeans.

GASPE, Que.—Celebration this year of the 400th anniversary of Jacques Cartier's second voyage to Gaspé and up the St. Lawrence River finds scientists on the threshold of explorations into the potentially rich archaeological, geological, and anthropological treasures of this almost untouched peninsular empire, North American treasure house of fable and fact.

Seeking a "Philosophers' Stone" in their own field, one group of scientists is turning to Gaspé in hope of solving the riddle of the whereabouts of the first gangplank to the New World. Midway maps and ancient manuscripts carefully preserved in Copenhagen prove conclusively that Leif the Lucky, son of Erik the Red, cruised along the northeastern shores of North America in 1002-04 but to date diligent search has failed to uncover a trace of the Norsemen in Newfoundland or on the New England coast, thereby sharpening the focus on Gaspé as the possible Vineland of the Norsemen's records.

So while picturesque Gaspé "habitants" honor Cartier as the trail-blazer, science is hoping to piece together proof that Lief Erikson first spanned the Atlantic to the rugged Quebec shore almost a thousand years ago and more than 500 years before Cartier arrived from St. Malo and took "New France" for King and country.

Foremost among the men of science who have evinced an interest in Gaspé are Dr. Frank G. Speck of the Department of Anthropology at the University of Pennsylvania, and Harlan I. Smith of the National Museum of Canada. In the opinion of Dr. Speck "there is always the question of Norse residence in the Gulf of the St. Lawrence area."

Extensive geological and ornithological research is already under way in the Gaspé treasure house, for encouraged by the ease of access to the unspoiled territory, now made possible by the new 553-mile Belt Highway around the peninsula, noted scientists have studied the famous bird sanctuaries at Percé Rock, one of North America's great natural wonders. Meantime, geologists probing in the Silurian rock deposits of the Hugh Miller cliffs on the south shore, have been rewarded by finding rare petrified fossils, valuable pieces in the puzzle of the evolution process.

Working in a totally different field, Marius Barbeau, the noted French-Canadian anthropologist who is working in Quebec this summer, has uncovered more than 800 folk songs for the National Museum of Canada, preserving them on records for the Museum with the aid of Gaspesian troubadours of French, Scottish, English, Irish, and Indian descent.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—No question so intriguing Washington politicians and political observers quite so much as the 74th congress drew to a close, as that of why red-headed Irish John O'Connor fought so hard to keep the senate from questioning Howard C. Hopson, Associated Gas & Electric company executive.

The answer, as best can be learned from the inside, revolves around two points.

In the first place, the New Yorker, one of the three "bosses" of the house, has had anything but a feeling of kindness for the senate lobby investigating committee, from the start. He has made no attempt to hide his feelings either publicly or privately.

As chairman of the rules committee of the house he was ordered to investigate lobbying on the utility holding company bill. About the same time the senate set up a similar committee, headed by Black of Alabama.

The Black committee was given $50,000. The O'Connor committee, by virtue of the fact it is a standing committee of the house, received no such grant.

Senate Group Stole Show

THE Black committee could devote as much time as it pleased to its job. O'Connor's committee, one of the most powerful in the house, had to carry on without interfering with its usual course of duties—and they are of tremendous importance in the closing days of a session.

To add to these difficulties, the senate committee began to steal the show.

When luck came his way in the person of the round and much sought-after Hopson, O'Connor realized he had gotten a break and made the most of it. Attempts of the senate to capture his "prize" caused him to clamp down.

At last he could, and he did, accuse the senate of "racing after us, trying to catch up" and, incidentally, adding that in so far as he was concerned they could just keep on running.

Guards Prerogatives

AS FOR the second point, O'Connor—and his intimates say this has had much to do with the way he has acted in the Hopson affair—is tremendously jealous of the prerogatives of the house. He is always among the first to come to the defense of the house in a scrap with the senate.

He knows that the house is a sentimental body and that any appeal to their rights and dignity invariably goes over in a big way. He has seen it demonstrated time after time during the present session. Only recently he won an important victory by arguing:

"We may well take pride in the fact that we can legislate orderly and expeditiously. I for one am willing to match the procedure of this body as against another body. . . . I will not match demagogues against demagogues."

Talks to Parents

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Summer sore throats and tonsillitis are always a very suspicious symptom and the doctor should be called the moment they occur. Often they start very suddenly. There is a gland which lies in the throat, and a little red spot in the throat which is only painful if one swallows.

But these irritating symptoms are apt to be the forerunners of trouble and should be treated seriously. It may be that they are the first signs of some contagious disease—measles, scarlet fever, mumps, diphtheria. They may be the result of infected water or milk supply, or even of sewage or other pollution in the water where the child swims.

Frequently the child who let us as apparent reason has tonsillitis in summer has chronically infected tonsils. In such a case he should be operated on by a physician, and if and when the doctor so advises have his tonsils removed.

A sore throat is one of the first danger signals and cannot be lightly treated. There is always some underlying cause for the pain. Many heart infections are the result of acute tonsillitis which have not been treated because "it did not seem necessary. There was no other symptom."

As a doctor once said, "The tonsils are like forms of soldiers guarding the system against disease germs. Once the forms have been sealed by the enemy, they come to be of value and become sources of danger. These hostile forces will, from the point of vantage they have secured, invade the whole system."

In winter when cold infections are prevalent sore throats are not so indicative of trouble as in summer. They may be due to colds or the strain of constant coughing. It is the throat which is apt to become affected in summer which is the one to be regarded with suspicion.

A reproduction of the Taj Mahal carved on a grain of rice is one of several unique features on display in the exhibit of the government of India at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, this year. The carving is the work of a native artist who has also contributed another grain of rice on which he has sculptured scenes of the King and Queen.

Mrs. Cross Takes Plane Hop Over Crosspatch

"From an oxcart to an airplane," said a friend of mine, who dropped into Crosspatch yesterday to see how I felt after circling above my home in an airplane. "Wonderful," seems just too tame a word to describe the airplane ride—one of the greatest thrills I've ever had.

Occasionally planes fly over the mountains around Crosspatch, but they are always very high. Every time I've seen one I've been longing to be up there and see how it felt to be far above the earth. Now I know.

Someone recently reminded me there was an airport at Kingston, and suggested I try an airplane trip. I spoke to several friends about it, and they all advised me against it, but none of them had been in an airplane, so I didn't let that discourage me. We know of the high percentage of casualties in motoring, yet that never keeps us from driving forth to meet the unit and absent-minded, who clutter the highway. Seems to me there are far fewer hazards in airplane flying. You've got the world all to yourself, a fine expert pilot and a good machine—why worry? Yet, I must confess that I approached my first airplane ride with something of the same feeling with which one visits the dentist—a bit of fear and quite excited inwardly. Once in the plane, I was just excited and happy.

Delightful, every bit of the airplane experience: the earth falls away so gently and soon you seem to be floating as if on a cloud and with no sensation of speed, even though the meter shows over 100 miles an hour and an altitude of twelve to eighteen hundred feet.

My ideas of flying had been mostly extracted from the movies and adventure stories—so I expected we would rush forward and upward in a great gale of wind and amidst harrowing noises—the reality was so different. The engine did make some noise, but I forgot it after the first few minutes. I was so interested in seeing the familiar country from Kingston to Willow from such a new and lovely point of view.

Anyhow the engine didn't make any more noise than an old model T Ford, which I used to own and the airplane was ten times more comfortable.

It was a cloudy day, though we got a glimmer of sunshine between Woodstock and Shady and over the Ashokan Reservoir it was so clear.

I think to take your first airplane trip over familiar country adds to the thrill. I could easily pick out all my neighbors' homes and believe me, I know how every back yard looks between Woodstock and Crosspatch. The pilot flew low so I could see. Saw some things about my own that might be improved, for with airplanes that unpainted back porch and neglected rear yard will just be like an open book. A village gossip should just love joy-riding in the air. Think of all the things she'd see.

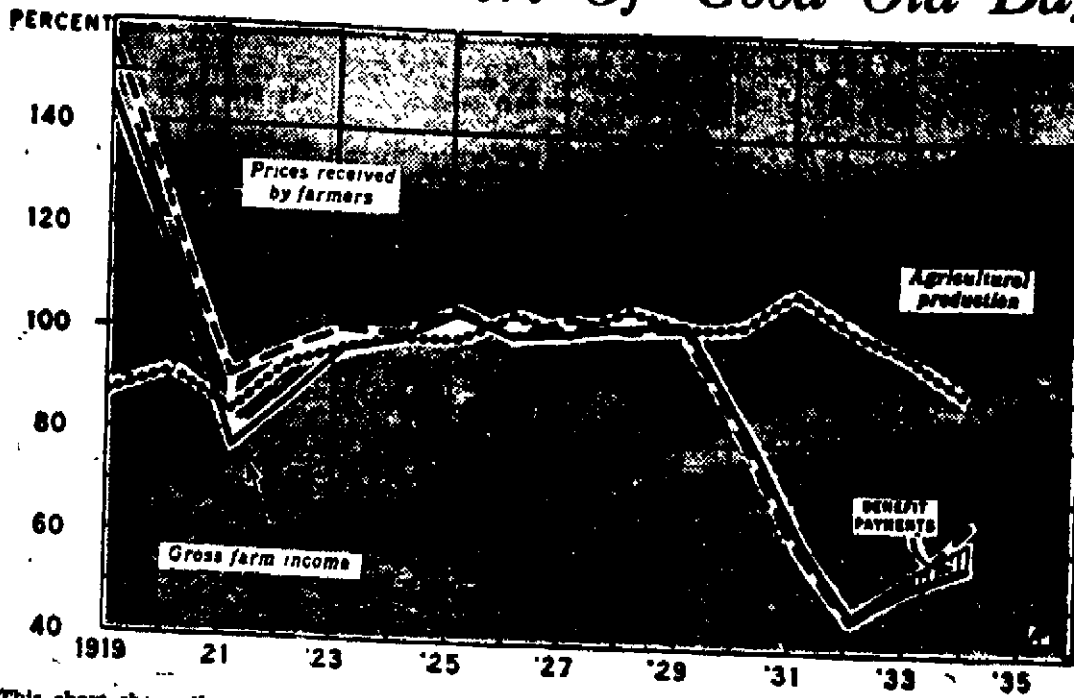

The pilot circled above Crosspatch three times, quite low. I could see my blue garden plainly, though the colors were just a blur, but the outlines were clear and I was glad I couldn't see the weeds in a neglected corner of the rock garden. The best thrill was when the plane seemed to head straight into the high mountain across the brook from the house, the mountains just seemed to rush at us. In a moment, however, the plane had turned and was gliding toward the Willow valley, easy as a rocking chair.

If you want to see your neighborhood and your own home at its best, why not go airplaning just for the sheer pleasure of it. An airplane trip from Kingston to Crosspatch and return costs about one half what a taxi would, though the taxi don't have to worry yet, because you generally only want the one way trip from Kingston and we haven't any landing field up around Crosspatch yet, though I'd be glad to donate the land if enough level ground could be found. The Willow valley looks ideal for the purpose, but up on the mountains our fields all seem to be tipped up on edge.

Seriously speaking I look to see the day, and soon, when we will all have those new fool proof gyro planes that rise right up in the air and land on a space about the size of your front yard. Then you just fold the wings back and trundle it into the garage as you now do your motor car. I look to leave Times Square one of these days on a bus air liner, reach Kingston in about thirty-five minutes, transfer to the smaller plane, like the one I've just had and land right up in Crosspatch within the hour, so then I can commute to and from New York by air and have a most comfortable and enjoyable trip of about an hour, where now three to four hours by motor car, train or bus is about the best we can figure.

Then the private auto gyro car would take the place of the in-

Farmers' Income On The Upgrade, But Still Short Of 'Good Old Days'

This chart shows the agricultural production, prices received by farmers and income for the years 1919 to 1935 inclusive. It will be noted that since the low point for the price and income indexes of 1921, the improvement has been steady with agricultural production gradually declining. Increasing benefit payments in the last two years have added to the income. The payments shown are for adjustment contracts during the calendar year.

By WILLIAM A. WHITE

Washington, (AP)—The farmer, Uncle Sam asserts after his latest inventory, is climbing slowly out of the depression—but his income in the crop year just checked was still some $9,000,000,000 short of what it was in the best of the "good old days."

Closing the books after a country-wide estimate on the money made by agriculture in the 1934 season, the bureau of agricultural economics says gross income was $894,000,000 ahead of 1933—$7,300,000,000 against $6,406,000,000. But the biggest money year, in more than a generation—the great crop that came off as the World War ended—was more than double today's figure, nearly $17,000,000,000.

Reducing the current figures to terms of the individual, it was found that the 6,228,648 farms in this country had an average income of $397 each, against $860 the year before—but that sum does not include cost of production, wages, interest, rent and taxes. In percentage, farm prices were found to have advanced 44 from their low point in 1921. All this came about, the bureau says, amid the smallest production in 13 years.

Cotton Income Up

As income marched ahead, the south's great crop—cotton—again jumped ahead in the parade, after playing second fiddle, either to vegetables or grain, for four years. The farmer's "take" from cotton and cottonseed in the 1934 season was $723,000,000 against $688,000,000 for the season before. But the biggest factor, the bureau says, in helping the farmer to keep out of the red was the better price for live-stock and livestock products, due principally to drought and government buying. Income from that source was $3,623,000,000, compared with $3,096,000,000 for the year before, and bigger by $500,000,000 than that from all other crops.

What farmers are doing with this extra money was not found in detail by the bureau, but it does report that they spent 70 per cent more for machinery, automobiles and trucks than in the year before.

Paid More In Wages

Too, they paid in cash wages $277,000,000 or $25,000,000 more than in the year before. The income available, after various deductions for operators' labor, capital and management was figured by the bureau's experts at $3,468,000,000, and the farm operator's net capital at nearly $1,500,000,000.

Production, the bureau says, was in an "abnormal situation" with that of grain only about two-thirds of the unusually short crop of the year before and that of cotton the shortest since 1921.

Cotton Ticket Lost Too Long. Gainesville, Tex. (AP)—Arthur Hall recently discovered a cotton ticket obtained from the North Texas Compress company for a bale of cotton placed in storage 23 years ago. Storage charges upon the "lost bale" exceeded the present value.

Files Divorce Suit. Reno, Nev., Aug. 29 (AP)—Kathleen T. Latham filed suit for divorce here yesterday against Harry O. Latham of 16 Seymour Place, White Plains, N. Y. They were married in Chicago September 22, 1924. Mrs. Latham gave desertion since October 7, 1922, as grounds.

ways we can travel. The airplane for me after this.

I just wish everyone would try this new thrill. I'm sorry I didn't get air-minded long ago. One ought not to miss any of the pleasant things of life, especially one so easily had as this.

Mrs. Roberts Sues Railroad for $15,000

New York, Aug. 28 (Special).—An action for damages of $15,000 against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company was begun in United States District Court here today by Mrs. Louise Roberts of Lloyd, acting as administratrix of the estate of her husband, the late James Roberts.

Mr. Roberts died on April 21 as the result of a fall from a public pathway along Little Italy Road, between Lloyd and Highland, where the railroad's tracks underpass the road. The complaint charges the railroad with negligence in failing to maintain a fence or guard rail along the path, which is on the company's property. Roberts fell 35 feet to the tracks, landing on his head. He left a wife and eight children.

Pattern No. 1742-B

The Barbara Bell Pattern Book featuring fall designs is ready. Send 15 cents today for your copy.

A Shirtwaist Dress Designed for the Mature Figure

The panel, from shoulders to hem in the dress illustrated creates an illusion which is most flattering. You see it is narrowed at the waistline, and you see what that does! It takes away the bulky look at the middle of the figure, and makes you look loads more slim than you actually are. The blouse buttons with three large buttons, and bound buttonholes, please! And the wide, straight sleeves are buttoned at the wrist. The collar may be a small, round affair, close to the throat, or open, like a boy's shirt.

This frock is good in all sorts of fabrics. Silks, crepes, the silks, shirtings, or shantung, are excellent—nice to wear now, and later, under a top coat. Flannel, fine, soft and washable, too, is used for dresses of the shirt-maker variety, and the colors are lovely—deep orchid, oxford gray and the rest shades.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1742-B is designed in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 requires about 4½ yards of 39-inch material. The belt may be purchased separately.

Accidental Death In Butler Shooting

Bedford, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP).—A medical examiner's finding of accidental death closed today the investigation of the shooting of Arthur Wellman Butler, Jr., son of a wealthy, retired New York banker.

Young Butler's body was found late yesterday in a glen on his father's 500-acre estate near Bedford. A bullet had drilled his skull.

Beckie him lay his 22-calibre rifle. Nearly 200 searchers, aided by bloodhounds and wealthy amateur aviators from the neighborhood, had sought the youth since he had failed to return from a brief hunting trip on the estate Wednesday.

Dr. Amos O. Squire, chief medical examiner of Westchester county, questioned members of the family and Charles Bouten, who found the body beneath a clump of bushes. He then announced that he agreed with them Butler apparently had been killed when a twig caught the hair trigger of his rifle.

HOME INSTITUTE BOOKLET TELLS HOW TO MAKE HAIR YOUR CROWNING GLORY

FOUR COIFFURES BECOMING WITH FALL HATS

Shall your fall hat be chosen to suit your coiffure? Or shall you decide on a way of dressing your hair, and then select a hat? Yes, coiffures are as important as that this season.

Whichever way you go about this, make sure that your hat and coiffure look as though they belong together. And remember that hair is being worn off the face this year.

Perhaps you'll have a halo hat—like the one sketched in the upper left square. These hats are designed to give you the clear browed look of an angel in an Italian painting. So with such a hat, try wearing your hair brushed smoothly back from your forehead, with natural-looking fluffiness about the ears, and soft, up-curling ends at the back, along the normal hairline.

For Small and Trimmed Hats. If a beret suits you, you might like to go in for curls—and the kind of hairdress shown in the lower left square. In this youthful arrangement, the hair is parted in the center, waves back from the face, and ends in rows or clusters of curls tucked behind the ears.

The ever-popular brimmed hat in the upper right hand square belongs with sports costumes. If you like this kind of hat, you'll probably wear your hair in loose, wide waves, brushed away from the forehead, and ending in a small knot or soft waves at the back.

With the tiny, smart hats of this season, you need a trim and jaunty coiffure. The tricorn in the lower right square is worn with the hair dressed high, so that it looks quite short. The top row of curls, just below the crown of the head, is pulled forward at the temples.

Send for Complete Booklet. This is just skimming the fascinating subject of coiffures. You'll find more, and much valuable advice about the care of the hair—hands, too—in our 32-page Home Institute booklet, Your Hair and Your Hands. It discusses: Principles of the Coiffure; Care of Dry and Oily Hair; The Dye Question; What to do About Dandruff; How to Have Lovely Hands.

writes words of praise for soap that gets clothes whiter from washer

Read what Mrs. S. C. Shurter of 10 St. James St., says:

These are her own words:

"The first time I used Rinso in my washing machine, my eyes opened wide with amazement. Talk about suds! Why, Rinso piled up into the richest, creamiest suds ever. And how they lathered the dirt! I was through with the week's wash in half the usual time, and the clothes were at least four shades whiter. The colors were much brighter, too. That's why I will use no other soap for the week's wash—for dish and for all my household."

MRS. SARA C. SHURTER

10 St. James St., Kingston, N. Y.

You can soak your clothes in Rinso suds for a few minutes, an hour, overnight—or as long as you find convenient. Yet no matter how long you soak your clothes you can be sure that everything will be absolutely safe.

Recommended by makers of 34 famous washers

It's not an accident that so many leading washing machine manufacturers endorse Rinso. They know from experience that Rinso gives rich, lasting suds—suds in hardest water. Rinso is marvelous for tub washing, too. It soaks out dirt, gets clothes white as brand new without scrubbing or boiling. Even stubborn cuffs and edges come clean with a little gentle rubbing between the fingers. Easy on the hands. Keeps them smooth and white. Tonal and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Get the BIG household package at your grocer's today. It's economical.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

One-word description of the new fashions—colorful.
Lana Marwin

The coming autumn promises to be a colorful one in fashions. While black is very, very smart, there is much favor for red in bright shades, orange tints, rust and wine shades—also American Beauty. Bright greens and greens with a brownish or grayish cast are well liked. Royal blue, violet, sapphire, fuchsia, iris and dark brown also receive important mention.

The latest modes for afternoon wear display many draped effects at neckline, and bodice, also skirt fullness achieved with flared sections or inverted pleats that do not interfere with the much desired slenderness of the silhouette. Sleeves, too, show smart fullness, while other noteworthy details include dropped shoulders, sunburst tucks, braid trimmings and antique jewelry ornaments.

The new afternoon model sketched above uses metallic crepe in rich wine and gold combination. This dress displays the favored high draped neckline and impressed pleats at skirt front. The sleeves and bodice are cut all-in-one, the full sleeves being fitted at the wrist. An antique gold buckle trims the self-belt.

The dressy hat also sketched above is designed from an original Alphonseine. Of distinct clerical impression, the deep V-shaped back is trimmed with falling ribbon streamers.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Aug. 28.—Mrs. W. J. Begley and son, Philip, of New York city, are guests at the summer home of Mrs. Begley's sister, Mrs. D. T. Reardon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kenny of Brooklyn spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Osterhout.

Carl Van Bramer, for many years an employee of the Bailey dairy farm, has opened a store on the north boulevard near the Boiceville post office.

Miss Edna Hamilton has returned to Kingston after a visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Julia Hogan.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Burhans, old residents of the Brown Station hill neighborhood, were numbered among the many callers in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday.

Mrs. Edwin Swenson of Locust Valley is spending a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Marble.

About 40 members of the 215th Co. CCC, remained at the local camp over the week-end. The menu for Sunday dinner was made up as follows: Roast beef and gravy, mashed potatoes, string beans, ice cream, bread and butter and iced cocoa.

Morris Rose, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rose, is attending the Pine Camp military maneuvers with his outfit, the 15th Field Artillery.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Salminger and daughter of Astoria, L. I., were included among the crowd of week-end guests at the Shokan House.

Saturday, August 29, 1934, a baseball game took place at the "brick-yard lot" between the Mountain Stars of Shokan and the Resolute of Kingston. John W. ("Car-penter" John) Windrum was moundman for the local nine and he also won fame that day by clouting the ball out of the field and into the apple orchard on the other side of the road leading in to the Baker-man brook from the Esopus creek road.

Other players upon this occasion included Levi Elmendorf, Rees Krom and George Hawk. Mr. Elmendorf, formerly of Olive, now resides in Kingston. The score, according to the best collection of Elwyn Winchell, who attended the game, was 20-11 in favor of the Stars, who were individually and collectively resplendent in nifty uniforms of blue pants, white shirts, and red, white and blue belts bearing the widely known insignia "Mountain Stars."

Mr. Windrum, who starred in this exciting game of the long-ago, was the father of Carl and Will Windrum of Kerhonkson.

Mr. Elmendorf, local Republican committeeman, and Elwyn Winchell, deputy postmaster, played as third baseman and catcher, respectively, with the Stars after the baseball diamond was moved across the main road from what in later years became known as the Dr. Kemble place.

William Griffith and family of New Jersey were callers Sunday at the home of Mr. Griffith's uncle, Claude Rose.

Gus Johnson, John A. Linn and Ed A. Morante, three New York city young men, spent a few days last week in the village center.

Pitching horseshoes is a popular pastime evenings and holidays at the big CCC camp. There are three courses available for the devotees of barnyard golf, two of these being in front of the recreation hall, along state-road 28. The iron stakes for the reception of potential "ringers" are set in square, depressed beds constructed of brick, sand and light railway iron.

The pitching grounds are lighted by electricity.

Mrs. Della Gorman and children are spending two weeks at the summer home of Miss Clara Leasor of Kingston.

A member of the local New York Central section gang last week found the watch which belonged to the U. & D. R. R. engineer killed in the Glenford wreck several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Naughton and sons, Donald and Walter, returned to their home in the Bronx Sunday after a pleasant sojourn in Shokan.

William Bosdoff of Mt. Vernon was a week-end guest at the Winchell farm. Mr. Bosdoff is engaged in the manufacture of chemicals in New York city.

Mrs. John Clark and Mrs. Katherine Kenny returned to Boston, Mass., Saturday after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eimendorf.

Residents of the village center recently were awakened late Saturday night by gun-shot reports. A city visitor who claimed to have witnessed the firing, reported that men with a machine gun were shooting at Sherlocks around the corner store.

Between this nocturnal cannonading and the finding of a murdered man down county on the Monday morning following, Wild goings-on in our peaceful burg, for a fact.

Hundreds of 20-year old Scotch pine trees on the reservoir preserve have been destroyed as a result of the ravages of the "spittle bug."

Other varieties of pines appear to be immune from this scourge, and the Scotch pine also appears not to have been attacked in its native habitat.

City workmen fell the trees and burn the infested areas over clean in an effort to control the spittle bug which thus far has successfully related complete eradication.

The damage to trees on the old Cole and Every farms, near the Esopus Creek "Deep Hole" swimming place of past generations, is especially severe and the blighted area is indicated amongst a sea of evergreen trees by a huge brown spot, as visible from the north boulevard west of Shokan village.

ROSENDALE

Rosendale, Aug. 27.—Carolyn Eberhardt, 4-H member of Rosendale group, won first prize for her sewing work box and third prize for her whole wheat bread at the Ulster county fair.

Mrs. Henry Myers is visiting relatives at Portsmouth, N. Y.

Mrs. Zugala and son, Earl, of Watervliet are guests of the Misses Carrie and Lois Anderson.

Miss Clara Relyea and Loma Schoonmaker are home after spending the summer with her sister in Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hefty and children of Mt. Vernon are guests of her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Houst.

Miss Laronia Hasbrouck has returned home after spending two weeks at Saratoga Lake.

Mrs. D. Hawthorne of New York city is a guest at the Warner House.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Purdy and son, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Thorne and daughter, Miss K. Condy, and Louis Purdy, all of New Rochelle, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Purdy.

Further plans are being made for the flower show for the Boy Scouts of this village which will be held at the Firemen's Hall September 18.

Louis Auchmoody is at the government camp at Pine Hill.

Mrs. Peter Farrell of Maspeth, L. I., spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Mary McEvoy.

Mrs. Rose Hayden, Miss Dolores Hayden and Mrs. A. Kenny have returned home from a week's motor trip from the south.

Mrs. Ebbages of New York city is a guest of her mother, Mrs. Conklin.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Southard of Kingston were guests Sunday of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krom.

In Soviet Fuss

Reports from Washington were that the U. S. Soviet Russia dispute over communism was partially brought on by George Dimitroff, who told the Third International that "The communist party should support the election of President Roosevelt at the next election because his defeat might enable forces now opposing our forces to give us a body blow." (Associated Press Photo)

It is said that there are 15,000 skeletons in the closets of the University of Kansas. That's better than Washington, D. C., could do in its palmiest days.

RIFTON

Rifton, Aug. 28.—The Misses Molly and Dorothy Schickler entertained the following relatives and friends over the week-end: Mrs. Clements and daughter, Verne, their grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Trisener, their uncle, Robert Trisener, also their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Clements, Mr. and Mrs. A. Frankowitz and daughter, Helen, Mrs. S. Frankowitz and son, Fred and their father, Charles Schickler, all of New York city.

Mrs. Mary Harle of New York city is spending several weeks at the home of Mrs. E. Balfe.

Rifton folks are all asked to attend the big amateur contest sponsored by the St. Remy Fire Department, which is to be given in Rifton Hall on August 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Van Keuren of Kingston were entertained at the home of Mrs. Harry Eckert one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bailey and family, also Ethel and Julius Eckert, motored to Lake Mohonk last Saturday to attend the ball game between the Mohonk team and one from Poughkeepsie.

Mohonk won in the 11th inning by a score of 10 to 9.

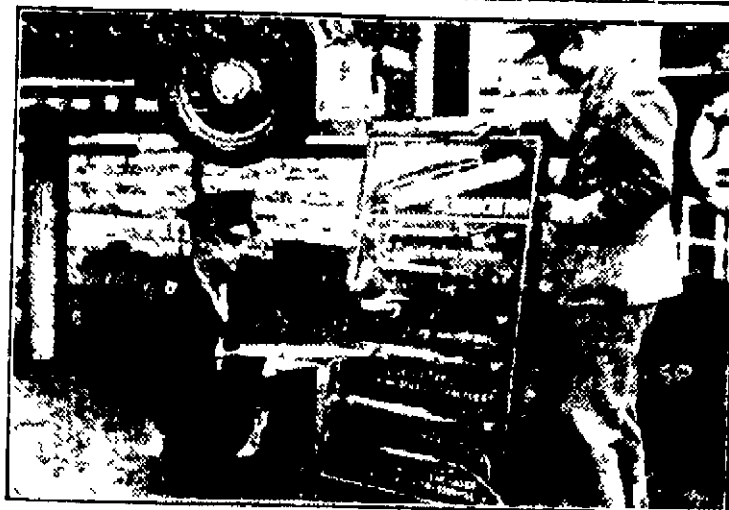

Miss Anna Devine is attending the state fair at Syracuse, acting as chaperon for the 4-H Club members of Ulster county.

Also attending the state fair is Miss Aila Suomenen of this place.

Modern equipment is required to give a thorough lubrication job. The combination of this modern equipment and Richfield lubricants explains the popularity of Richfield stations in this territory.

LABOR DAY TIPS FOR MOTORISTS OF KINGSTON

Touring on Labor Day can be a real pleasure or it can be a nightmare. Before starting out on your auto trip, have a reliable service station look over your car. Be sure your tires are sound. Flats and blowouts can make your trip miserable. Oil should be fresh (Refill with Richlube) and a general greasing job (Richlube "All Point Lubrication") might as well be done beforehand so that you won't have to worry about it on your trip.

While on the road, use Richfield Hi-Octane Gasoline, too, for premium performance at no extra cost.

N. Y. TAXI DRIVER INTERVIEWED

Believing that taxicabs are the great proving ground for gasoline and motor oil performance, Richfield interviewed a number of taxi drivers who have used other gasolines and oil and have changed to Richfield Hi-Octane and Richlube 100% Pure Pennsylvania Motor Oil.

Here's what Louis Paschke has to say: "Sure, I've tried about all of them looking for a gasoline that reduces carbon in my motor. This car is my meal ticket and I can't afford to lay it up for removing carbon and things like that. I find that Richfield does the work for me gives me real mileage, plenty of power—and I guess that's what Hi-Octane means."

LET KIDNEYS FLUSH OUT 3 LBS. A DAY

Clean Out 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes
Nature put over 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters in your kidneys to strain the waste matter out of the blood. Kidneys should pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.
When the passing of water is scanty, with smarting and burning, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of aching backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.
If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body may take up some of these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and help the kidneys to flush out 3 pounds a day. Insist on Doan's Pills.

"War Is a Racket," Declares Speaker At Rotary Luncheon

Fred Bannister, Soldier in World War, Says Moment Profit Is Taken From Sale of Arms, That Much Sooner Will War Cease.

"Statistics show that it took $25,000 to kill a soldier during the World War, and when one realizes that 8,000,000 men were murdered in that conflict, it gives a fair idea how much the munitions makers profited from that wholesale slaughter," said Fred Bannister in speaking before the members and guests of Rotary at the Governor Clinton yesterday noon. Mr. Bannister, speaking on the subject "War is a Racket," saw the World War as a soldier in the front line trenches of Belgium and France, and his talk was blunt in the belief that the moment profit is taken from the sale of arms, that much sooner will war cease. The war lords of Europe and America are the munitions makers, according to the speaker, who grew rich in the traffic of armed destruction.

Mr. Bannister, in beginning his talk, painted a vivid picture of the late war with its horror and mass murder. The blackened and bloated bodies of thousands of soldiers who sacrificed their lives without knowing why, the terror of the first gas attack on the western front, the use of scientific implements of war, all these things and many more, were described by the speaker who was an eye witness to the whole calamity.

"There was no hatred between the men who fought each other," explained Mr. Bannister. "And all of them went through the war wondering what all the fighting was about." Propaganda, the germ of all wars, was the most destructive element to deal with today, stated the speaker in continuing his address. It is the thing the people of the United States must guard against because it is thick at the present time in its effort to inflame the minds of the people. It was the speaker's firm belief that another major war is in the making, and as soon as alliances, pacts, etc., are completed between the great powers, war will begin, a war that will make the last one seem like a garden party. The speaker believed that there was but one thing for this country to do, to stay out of any and all entanglements with European nations, to keep a strong army, navy and airplane service well trained to cope with the protection of the nation.

The speaker went into a detailed account concerning both individuals and companies who made wars in order to profit from them. Men have made millions of dollars from the sale of arms, and companies, both in Europe and the United States, have been paying unbelievable dividends from the profits in selling war materials. And stockholders in these companies are often men high in the government, men give lip service to the cause of peace and who grow rich in the profitable sale of arms. These men and these companies, stated Mr. Bannister, are the real reason for every modern war, and if their profits could be taken away, there would be nothing left to fight for.

The big game hunting season in the Province of Ontario will open this year on September 15. The hunting, however, will be confined to moose, deer and bear in the territory north of the railway line between Cochrane, Ontario and Winnipeg, Manitoba. The opening dates in other sections occur somewhat later, hunting in Ontario being staggered to conform to weather conditions.

HIS EXCELLENCY—

The Governor of Indiana.

Paul V. McNutt, Indiana's governor, seems always to have been at the head of something... was tops in his classes in college... became national commander of the American Legion... dean of the law school at Indiana University... and then governor of his state. He likes to make speeches, ride in airplanes, play golf and poker, is interested in little theatre movements and the radio, and will go miles to see a good football game. Prematurely gray, the handsome, 44-year-old executive aspires for higher political position within the Democratic party. He is boss of the party organization in Indiana and rules with an iron hand. Motion picture folk, who have visited the governor, say the silver screen missed a personality when McNutt went in for politics rather than romance.

ACCORD

Accord, Aug. 28—The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church will serve their regular monthly dinner in the church hall on Thursday, August 29, at 12 o'clock, daylight saving time. The following menu will be served: Baked Virginia ham, mashed potatoes, green beans, sweet corn, tomato salad, pickles, jelly, peach pudding with whipped cream and coffee.

Mrs. Phoebe Lawrence spent last week-end with friends in Kingston. Mrs. Pearl Coddington and sons are spending a week with relatives in Chappaqua, N. Y.

Saturday evening, August 24, 19 of Mrs. John Miller's friends surprised her at her home, the occasion being her birthday. The evening was pleasantly spent playing pinocle and other games. At a late hour refreshments were served and all departed in a very happy mood. Mrs. Miller was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Earley and daughter, Melvina, spent a few days recently with relatives at Walden. Roland Veight, who is confined to the Benedictine Hospital as the result of an accident, is getting along as well as can be expected. His many friends are helping him to pass the long hours of each day.

The World

ON WHEELS

Twenty-one and three-fourths miles to a gallon of gasoline, and 3,000 miles on 3 1/2 quarts of oil, were the records registered by a stock Chevrolet Master de Luxe sedan in a certified 3,000-mile non-stop economy run staged in California. The run was undertaken to learn the actual economy performance of the motor car under routine driving conditions such as encountered by the average vacationing driver. The car was sealed by the Los Angeles deputy state sealer of weights and measures. This sealing operation included the crankcase and the ignition.

Wind tunnels, first brought to public attention in the solution of major airplane design problems, are playing a new role here to give the modern high-compression automobile a vastly improved cooling system. The use of the wind tunnel in perfection of the cooling system for all 1935 Plymouth cars was disclosed here for the first time this week. Automotive engineers had earlier adapted the aeronautical wind tunnel, to their own uses in the study of streamlining for motor cars, but Chrysler Motors engineers are believed to be the first to employ the wind tunnel in their radiation studios.

Nearly 300 employees of the Studebaker Corporation, whose names have been on the firm's payroll for 20 years or more were honored this week by Paul G. Hoffman, president, at a meeting in the Studebaker Athletic Association rooms. Especially honored at the meeting were 12 men who have been employed by the firm for more than 40 years. Among them was H. V. Kimble, employed 53 years, since 1882, the oldest employee in point of service, and George M. Sherman, who has just completed 50 years of employment with the corporation. Gold coat lapel decorations were awarded all veterans present in honor of their long services.

One thing to remember is that the presidential candidate who gets the most votes in 1935 is apt to be shot full of holes by Easter, 1936.

CLARKE, CLARKE, CLARKE! What remains to be said, when motor oils shout themselves loudly with every word in the dictionary?

Well, here's the simple story of Esso Motor Oil. Read it—judge for yourself if it is worth trying—then make the oil do its own talking.

This oil was put on sale at our stations and dealers without a word of advertising. No claims. No bullbores.

We knew what it would do. As the world's leading petroleum organization, we knew we had produced an oil that would hold its body better than any other oil.

We knew it would run hot in hot weather, and thicken less in cold weather, than any other oil.

We knew it would hold its level in the gauge longer, protect your motor more completely, than any other oil.

But we made no claims. We put it out at 35¢ a quart to see if motorists would buy it—and then tell their friends.

In a few months, over a quarter of a million motorists tried this oil, and liked its performance so well that its sales exceeded estimates by 200%. We had our answer. Esso Motor Oil had told its story.

Esso Motor Oil had succeeded—on its own—by its own character—without a word of advertising.

That's the way we want it to succeed with you. We ask you to give Esso Motor Oil a thousand-mile trial to test its outstanding performance. This oil speaks for itself.

Broadway: "Orchids to You." All about a beautiful lady florist who knows more scandal than a basketful of gossip but who tells nothing because the ethics in her profession say to keep a stiff upper lip and an eye on business. Such a thing is pretty difficult for the lady to do because the wife of the man she loves is running around with another man. During the course of events, a national flower show is shown as an added feature of the picture, and it's the best part of the talkie. For although the play attempts to be light and airy, it has a tendency to be tedious. Jean Muir, John Boles, Charles Butterworth and Hervey Stephens are featured.

Orpheum: "I'll Love You Always" and "Wilderness Mail." Nancy Carroll, trying hard to beat her way back to the stardom she once knew, works valiantly in the opening feature, a dramatic tale of sacrifice and sorrow that also features George Murphy. "Wilderness Mail" is the second full length attraction, a story of the early west with Kermit Maynard starred. It has action galore, danger, excitement and melodramatic intensity. The youngsters will find this one to their liking.

Kingston: "Silk Hat Kid" and "Hard Rock Harrigan." A comedy offering is the opening number on the Kingston screen with Lew Ayres and Mae Clarke doing their best in a story that hasn't much to offer in the way of originality. Mr. Ayres and Miss Clarke form an engaging team and the picture is enjoyable and light entertainment. "Hard Rock Harrigan" is George O'Brien's latest talkie, a story of hard rock tunnel diggers. It's a virile picture, filled with fights and flying fists. Irene Hervey and Fred Kohler are also in the cast. Good entertainment.

Tomorrow: Broadway: Same. Orpheum: "Party Wiers" and "Paradise Canyon." Filled with wholesome satire, the opening feature at the Orpheum tells of what happens when the gossip of a small town listen in to telephone conversations of a private ture. Malicious talk and exaggeration is the outcome, and the tongues of the talkers almost wreck the lives of several people. Jean Parker, Victor Jory and Charles Grapewin head the cast. "Paradise Canyon" brings the handsome John Wayne in another glowing tale of the west.

Kingston: Same. Brown Station, Aug. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. August Melcher, bridal couple of New York city, spent a week's honeymoon at We-Own-A-Farm recently.

Jimmy Cook, Jr., is enjoying life CCC Camp at Bolleville. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Alexander of New York city were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Burhans.

Mr. and Mrs. Burhans are enjoying many nice rides in their new Plymouth. Miss Matilda Moeller of Brooklyn spent two weeks recently with Miss Bertha Merrill. Miss Moeller enjoyed several summers in this neighborhood during her girlhood days, when she boarded at the Lasher House, conducted by Henry Lasher, father of Mrs. Edwin Burhans.

Miss Moeller has traveled abroad extensively, having made nine trips to Europe during her life. She spent a great deal of her time in Germany. Miss Nora Dexter of San Juan, Porto Rico, recently enjoyed two weeks at the "Studio," as the guest of Miss Frances McParlan. Miss Dexter's grandfather was representative of Porto Rico to the United States about the time that Porto Rico came into the possession of the United States at the close of the Spanish American war.

Stirling Kryder of Larchmont, spent a few days at the "Studio." He just returned from a trip to Texas. Mr. Kryder was a guest here three years ago when he helped build the "Studio."

Miss Winifred Scheu of New York city was entertained recently by Miss Helena McParlan. Miss Scheu was a former classmate of Miss McParlan's at Villa Maria Academy in New York city.

Miss Mary Freehill of New York city is now a guest of Miss Helena McParlan's. They were classmates at the College of the Sacred Heart at Manhattanville, N. Y. Miss Freehill stayed to attend the bazaar at Woodstock, for the benefit of the Church of St. John.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Stigler of Brooklyn were entertained for the week-end at the Brennan farm. Miss Mary Sanderson of Bronxville, N. Y., is visiting Miss Frances McParlan. Miss Sanderson is a niece of Father Heaton of Stony Hollow.

Mrs. Ed Reynolds, Miss Acme Reynolds, Miss Roch, Mrs. McKee and Miss Costello, all of Kingston, attended a tea at the "Studio" Monday afternoon in honor of the visiting guests, Miss Sanderson and Miss Freehill.

Mrs. Virgil Gordon and daughters, Alberta and Ruth, motored to New London, Conn., one day last week and are visiting relatives there now. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dudley attended the funeral of Mrs. Cornelia Bishop at West Shokan last Wednesday. Mr. Dudley being one of the bearers.

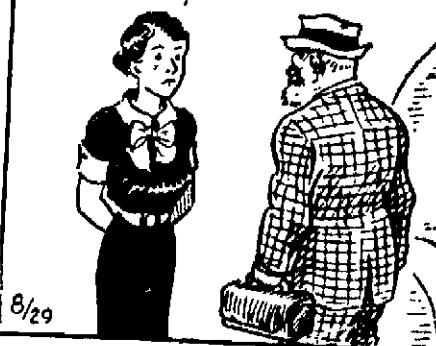

School will open Tuesday following Labor Day with Mrs. Archie Runk of Kingston as teacher. Robert Gordon has summer employment at the Watson Hollow Garage at West Shokan.

The extent to which modern pictures will be studied in schools and colleges during 1935-36, is evidenced by a report that thirty-three photographs of educational interest will be released during the coming academic year.

KNIGHTS TO BE ADDRESSED AT SPECIAL MEETING

Friday, August 30, Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus will be honored by a visit from Special Agent William A. Wells, a representative of supreme headquarters.

Grand Knight Andrew T. Gilday has called a special meeting of the Council for Friday evening at 8 o'clock, at which time Mr. Wells will address the officers and members of the Council upon matters of importance to the Order in general, and Kingston Council in particular. It is expected that a large number of Kingston Knights will be in attendance to welcome the special agent.

Mr. Wells was a visitor to Kingston Council about three years ago, and at that time delivered a splendid message concerning the welfare of the order.

MESSENGER SHOT WATCHING SCUFFLE AMONG STRIKERS

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—The strike of shipping clerks in the women's garment industry was a three-cornered fight today with members of the Cloak, Suit and Dress Drivers Union, who had also walked out, back on the job and attempting to make deliveries.

Charles Robinson, 17-year-old messenger, was shot and slightly wounded while watching a scuffle yesterday. John Williams, 41, a negro striker, was held under $1,000 bail in night court as his assailant. Police testified Robinson was shot while Williams attempted to seize a pistol from a driver's holster.

Pickets stopped many trucks and overturned numerous pushcarts in their fight for a $22 weekly wage and 35-hour work week for shipping clerks. Leaders said 9,000 were on strike.

Myrna Loy's Plan For New Film Breaks Studio-Star Tiff Tradition

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—When Myrna Loy signed recently with Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur to do a picture in the east called "Soak the Rich," she snashed the Hollywood tradition that studio-star tiffs never reach the stage of an open break.

Myrna and Metro were at odds for months, even before she left Hollywood for New York and Europe in the midst of the making of "Escapade." She left the cast suddenly, giving Laine Balzer her big opportunity and said goodbye to movie-land. Metro expected she would be back soon, her feelings soothed. By Myrna fooled Metro by dallying very firmly, in other parts.

Quit "When Salary Stopped" That, at least, is what Hollywood understood about the matter. Myrna said, in announcing abrogation of her contract in New York, that "... although my services have been continuously available to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, they have refused payment of my salary."

Myrna charged the studio with broken promises. The crux of the situation, as Hollywood understood it, is that the red-headed, freckle-faced star from Montana wanted a salary increase she felt her due. She had been receiving around $2,000 week.

But Gerbo, for instance, is reputed drawing $250,000 a year—at her salary has been high through out most of her ten years in pictures. Myrna, on the other hand, has been in pictures about the same number of years, and much of her time she has been a "struggling" actress. Only in the last year, with a marked change of type, has she emerged as a big money star. In role opposite William Powell, "The Thin Man" clinched a growing popularity.

MYRNA LOY

'Fight' Expected

Because Metro planned a sequel to this delicate comedy, and rather needed Myrna Loy for her former role, Hollywood expected the studio would not relinquish its claim on her services without a struggle.

There is scarcely a player who has not had a "fight" with his studio. Usually it's over salary, but often it is "story trouble," and sometimes it is over-work—which latter complaint was involved in the Loy-Metro tangle.

Among the more noted "strikes" of recent years have been those of Janet Gaynor, Ann Harding, Betty Davis, and Ann Dvorak, all of which terminated with a return of the star to her studio.

AT SUMMER THEATRES

Robert Elwyn will close his second year at The Maverick Theatre, Woodstock, N. Y. with a new play by Frank Carstarphen and Anne Warwick entitled "The Chalk Line." This play is laid out east in China, the four main characters around which the plot centers are quarantined in the home of one of the characters for several days. In the group there are three men and one woman, each of the men have a definite interest in the woman, one being her husband, another one who used to love her and the third the man with whom she is in love at the present time. The plot is one of the most interesting that has been presented at The Maverick this summer and should prove well worthwhile a trip to the theatre to witness this play. The cast will include Mary Farrell, Donald McHenry, Frank Rothe, Stephen Sanders and others. Robert Elwyn will of course direct.

Those who have enjoyed the performances that have been presented to them under the direction of Mr. Elwyn will realize what strides this theatre has taken under his management and will be happy to know that he has renewed his lease for The Maverick for another year.

Card Party Fourth Ward Republican Club will hold a card party tonight at 8 o'clock at its rooms on Delaware avenue.

Hearst Is in Favor of Al Smith as the 1936 Choice of Democrats

Santa Monica, Calif., Aug. 29 (AP)—The name of Alfred E. Smith was thrust into the 1936 presidential outlook today by William Randolph Hearst's statement that the New Yorker "would make a powerful candidate."

Some Washington circles expressed amazement at the publisher's political commitment heretofore existing between Hearst and the "Happy Warrior" of many political battles.

Declaring that Smith, who was the Democratic presidential nominee against Herbert Hoover in 1928, is "the accredited leader of the genuine Democratic party," Hearst said he thought the New Yorker "would make a powerful candidate."

Referring to published reports that he would support the candidate of a proposed "constitutional" Democratic party, Hearst said he did not know what party he would support. He said, however, he thought there "should be a Jeffersonian Democratic party in the field."

The availability of Smith to lead an independent ticket or oppose Roosevelt for renomination has been discussed in some quarters for months. The former New York governor has taken no public notice of the efforts in his behalf, but has appeared a critic of New Deal policies.

Opposed Al in 1928.

It was Hearst who was indirectly responsible for Smith failing to dominate in 1932 Democratic nomination in Chicago. William Gibbs McAdoo, who rode into the United States senatorship in California on the Hearst-sponsored ticket with John Nance Garner at the top, started the swing to Roosevelt in Chicago when he threw the California vote to him.

In 1922, when Charles F. Murphy, the late Taftman leader, backed Hearst for governor, Smith turned thumbs down on Hearst. The result was that Dr. Royal S. Copeland, a writer for Hearst newspapers, was chosen for the senate and won with Smith.

Smith was termed by the publisher as being the Democratic party's "latest presidential candidate."

Why Hearst Likes Smith.

"His principles are the historic principles of the party," Hearst said, in a statement which also appears today in his newspapers in the form of an editorial.

"Associated with him should be some notable southern Democrat like Governor Ritchie, or Senator Byrd, or Governor Talmadge."

"It is not for me as an American believing devotedly in the American principles of religious liberty, to know or care whether Mr. Smith is a Catholic, a Protestant or a Jew."

"He is a good citizen."

"Nor do I care whether he pronounces the word 'radio' in a manner to suit the professors of the brain trust."

"He pronounces the word 'America' properly and patriotically."

The publisher's statement said he supposed "Mr. Roosevelt will be the nominee of the Socialist-Democratic party, but even that is not a certainty."

The Republicans "might well nominate" Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas or Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, Hearst said.

His Opinion of Hoover.

He described former President Herbert Hoover as "a good man—as a private citizen," but added that "as a candidate he would be a calamity equalled only by the depression with which he is so closely identified."

The present administration, Hearst said, has "adopted all the Socialist principles," and "the regular Democratic party should sue out an injunction to prevent the Socialist party from using its name."

Congress 'Freshmen' Speak Out

They Upset Tradition of Being Seen and Not Heard

REP. PERCY GASSAWAY

SEN. JOSEPH F. GUFFEY

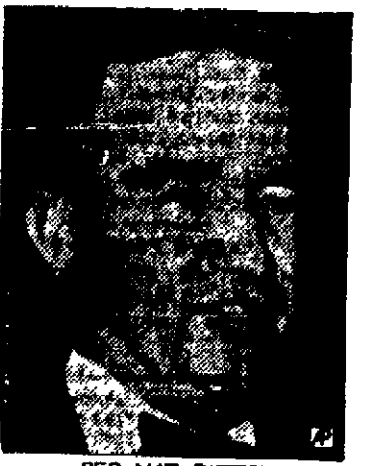

SEN. RUSH D. HOLT

Congress "first-termers" upset one apple cart after another as the long first session of the 74th congress dragged to a close. Above and below are five of congress "freshmen" who made themselves heard as well as seen.

SEN. SHERMAN MINTON

REP. NAT PATTON

DUTCHESS COUNTY FAIR IS ATTRACTING CROWDS

The Dutchess county fair drew about 10,000 for the second day, Wednesday, at Rhinebeck and is expected to attract many during the remainder of the week. It will end Saturday with the automobile races, trials for which are slated to start at noon.

Among the celebrities at the fair yesterday was Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt who watched her son, John, take part in the horse show. It is hoped by officials that the President himself will arrive home at Hyde Park from Washington in time to attend the fair.

Featuring tonight's program is the wild west rodeo.

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—The 74th congress all but knocked into a cocked hat the tradition which has prevailed on Capitol Hill that members of the house and senate serving their first term should be seen and not heard.

Glance over the list of names on the official congressional roster, bracketed alongside the designation "Beginning of present service, January 3, 1935." The record of achievement and success in projecting themselves into the limelight of these "freshmen" is impressive.

In the senate is Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania. Elected as the first Democratic senator from that state in something like 75 years, the portly, gray-haired Pennsylvania politician is the recognized boss of patronage in Pennsylvania, but coauthor of the Guffey-Snyder coal bill, one of the most far-reaching proposals considered in the present congress.

Rush D. Holt, of West Virginia, backed in the limelight as few of his seniors did while awaiting his 30th birthday permitting him to take his seat in the senate.

Investigators

SHERMAN MINTON of Indiana and Lewis Schwellenbach of Washington made names for themselves as senate investigators serving with Black of Alabama as members of the special senate committee to investigate lobbying against the utility holding company bill.

In the house the number is even more lengthy.

Ralph Brewster of Maine sprang into prominence overnight by charging that a member of the administration "brain trust" tried to coerce him into voting for the "death sentence" in the holding company bill.

and was largely responsible for the house lobby investigation on this measure. Nat Patton of Texas figured in the headlines for days while the senate lobby investigators were inquiring into his personal finances in connection with the same legislation.

It was D. J. Driscoll of Pennsylvania, whose suspicious concerning the number of telegrams sent from Warren, a town in his district, urging him to vote against the "death sentence" in the holding company bill, that sent senate investigators off on a trail which uncovered one of the most sensational episodes in the entire utility lobby investigation.

Attacked The 'Kingfish'

PERCY GASSAWAY of Oklahoma has been in the public eye by his attacks on Huey Long and the "kingfish's" share the wealth schemes. John Higgins of Massachusetts has attracted attention by his insistence that the administration protest against religious intolerance in Mexico.

Frank Hook of Michigan strode across the front pages when it was learned that his relatives were on the relief rolls. John McGroarty of California won distinction as the man who introduced the Townsend old-age pension plan.

Mauri Maverick of Texas has been one of the outstanding members of the house in the 74th congress, even overshadowing some of the veterans. He is credited with putting through the amendments to TVA in that body. His constant fight for legislation to take the profits out of war have kept him out in front.

Vito Marcantonio of New York, who succeeded Mayor La Guardia in the house, has fought side by side with Maverick and enjoyed the limelight with him.

Glascow Man Held for Hearing

Frank Morella, 21, of Glascow, was brought to the Ulster county jail Wednesday night by Captain Richter of Saugerties. He was held to await a hearing before Justice Henry D. Abeel on a charge of endangering the morals of a minor.

Principals Discuss Educational Changes

Hamilton, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—Changes in secondary education standards appeared in the offing today as an aftermath of the annual summer conference of the Associated Academic Principals of New York state.

The principals, in their three-day meeting at Colgate University, subjected the traditional secondary school standards to a rigid scrutiny and then labelled them for the most part unworkable and "old fashioned."

The latest attack came last night from Hugh H. Stewart of Mt. Vernon who appealed to the principals to press for "solution to the problem of the high school curriculum and college entrance requirements."

"We have accepted anything and graduated everything in the past," he declared, "and I think now we should assert ourselves and demand that the colleges work with us in harmonizing our re-adjusted curriculum with college entrance requirements."

"If we are preaching new educational changes and practicing the old traditional functions, it is no wonder there is a conflict."

"Secondary education should provide educational opportunities adapted to the needs of boys and girls approximately between the ages of 12 and 18 but this problem is complicated because in many cases the intellectually bright are social dumbbells, while the intellectual dumbbells are not always social dumbbells."

"Two burning questions face this group today and their solution must be found," he concluded. "They are college education requirements versus education for all and, should pupils be required to show their fitness to profit by college entrance preparation?"

Little change in the cost of living as a whole was noted in July, as compared with June, 1935.

Commander Opens Legion Convention

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—With delegates pouring in every hour to augment the crowd of more than 25,000 visitors already in Rochester, the American Legion's State Convention got underway officially today as Department Commander John Dwight Sullivan opened the first session in convention hall.

Hotel accommodations were exhausted yesterday and housing committees has utilized private homes, camps on the city outskirts and 1,700 cots at the New York State Armory.

Prospects of a brisk battle for election of a new commander enlivened the early session and keen debate also loomed on the questions of street peddling, the annual poppy sale and a variety of political issues. Virtually certain of adoption is a demand for immediate payment of the bonus.

Delegates were welcomed this morning by Roy R. Rumpf, convention chairman, and Mayor Charles Stanton of Rochester.

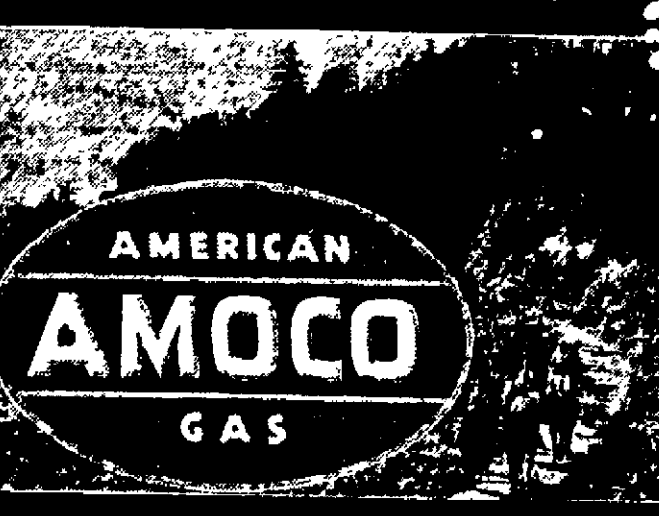

The afternoon's program included Lieut. Gov. M. William Bray and Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri.

The Legion Auxiliary also started its convention this morning with speeches by Mr. or Stanton, State President Mrs. Allen S. Hathaway and State Legion Commander Sullivan. Mrs. William Corbett of Rockville, L. I., is slated to succeed to the presidency with a five-cornered fight looming for the three vice presidential posts.

Events Around The Empire State

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP).—To provide entertainment for campers who are not content to merely watch the stars, the state conservation department has equipped two of the largest and most popular Adirondack Mountain public camp sites with a stage, a screen for motion pictures and seating place on hewn logs for 700 to 800 people. Commissioner Lithgow Osborne announced today that the assembly areas now are finished at Hartsdale Point, Lake George, and at Fish Creek, near Upper Saranac Lake.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP).—Congressman Bert Snell, Republican leader of the House, intends to accompany Vice President Garner on the tour of Hawaii. It was first said he was uncertain about the trip but it was learned here yesterday he has made arrangements to go and take his daughter with him.

Owego, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP).—John E. Mack, counsel for the legislative committee investigating public utilities in New York state, indicated here yesterday that Howard Hopson, head of the Associated Gas and Electric System, would be called to testify as soon as a study of "some of Hopson's service corporations" is completed. Mack said he did not intend to call Hopson "at present" but added the committee has "not finished with Associated Gas and Electric and Mr. Hopson."

New York, Aug. 29 (AP).—The New York Health Department will decide next week whether to open schools on schedule, September 9, or wait until the present infantile paralysis scare blows over. More than 1,000 cases of the disease have been reported in the city but Dr. William Best, acting health commissioner, said he is inclined to believe the danger is lessening.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP).—James Grant, 21, of Poughkeepsie is ready to give the "oldsters" a few points on the fine art of horseshoe pitching. He earned the right to do a little boasting yesterday as he won the state "barnyard golf" title at the state fair with a ringer percentage of 66.5, highest since the event was inaugurated in 1923.

Anthony Saura, 22, of Syracuse was runner-up and the next position went to Wade Matlack of Schenectady. Francis Spencer of Niagara Falls, Albert Falco of Greenwich and E. Rietz of Lyndonville.

"In every country where languages are being taught by air English is the most popular subject."

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

If you think an operation is always the only way to escape the misery of torturing Piles, it's because you haven't heard of Hem-Roid, the harmless internal medicine discovered by a western physician. After years of study Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was convinced that the cause of Piles was internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood, and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find the remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Pile sufferers everywhere are benefiting from Dr. Leonhardt's discovery. No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe clean way to get rid of your pile misery or money back. Ad.

SMUGGLING GUNS TO ETHIOPIA NEW GAME

Rumrunning Adventurers Now Turn to Arms.

Paris, France.—Europe's gangsters and international adventurers, who have found time on their hands since bootlegging booze into America became a dead industry, have discovered a new racket in gunrunning into Ethiopia.

While the chancelleries are busy trying to find a solution to the quarrel between Benito Mussolini and the emperor of Ethiopia, Haile Selassie I, gunrunning racketeers are busy rustling into East Africa the munitions which will blaze when talking ceases. With some 500,000 men to resist the might of Italy, and the need for airplanes, tanks and motorized artillery, the ruler of Ethiopia has sent emissaries to munition plants of Europe to try to obtain the equipment necessary to carry on war against the white invader of the kingdom founded, according to legend, by Solomon and the queen of Sheba.

Secret Orders Placed. Owing to the ban on export of arms, the Ethiopians have not been able to buy enough war stocks, although the emissaries have offered gold from their fabled mines. Some secret orders have been passed and ships, under sealed instructions, have sailed mysteriously from several ports in Europe down through the Suez canal and the Red sea.

Normally, they carry trinkets and western goods for the emperor's people, but in reality they have been loaded to the Pilsudski line with powder and arms.

The gunrunning racketeers are supplementing this traffic. Mostly Greeks, Germans, Armenians and other individuals of no defined nationality, they have spread their activity from the capitals of Europe to the shores of the Red sea and the inland frontiers of the emperor's kingdom.

Their agents throughout the western capitals are charged with the mission of buying all available rifles, shotguns and revolvers and, if possible, machine guns. These are then shipped to the nearest port, where bartering goes on with the captains of vessels bound east of Suez.

Racketeers Charter Ships.

The smugglers' agents offer big rewards to sea captains who are willing to use up available space in loading guns for the East African war. As, however, the number of vessels available on the regular routes is limited, the racketeers have been chartering vessels of their own, idle tramp steamers, yachts and sailing craft.

Crammed full to the decks with grenades and rifles and machine guns, they steer for the Red sea, unload their cargoes and rush them over the caravan routes by camel and mule pack to the frontiers of Ethiopia.

Here the Ethiopians, hungry for the guns which they need to defend their soil, are ready with precious gold dust tied in cloth, which they pay to the gun traders.

Throughout the vast desert wastes of Arabia and the Yemen, where Lawrence roused the tribes against the Turks in the World war, the gun traders today are searching the land for guns which they can ship across the stretch of water which separates the Arabian state from Africa.

Arabian tribes, eager to help their Ethiopian neighbors against the invading Europeans, gladly contribute their sharp-shooting rifles to the cause, especially when they get well paid for their benevolence.

"Blue Eagle's" Rise and Fall Is Found in Bible

Boston.—Mrs. Evelyn Connell, Biblical student, compared events of the past few years with those of the Bible and found them similar, even to the rise and fall of the Blue Eagle.

Mrs. Connell said the Great Stone Face in New Hampshire was similar to the part of Joshua where pilgrims entered the promised land and were commanded to take stones and leave them in the lodging place where they lodged for the night.

"And these stones shall be for a memorial unto the children of Israel forever. And the children of Israel did as they were commanded, and they are there unto this day."

"Joshua took a great stone and set it up as a witness unto all the people, for it hath heard all the works of the Lord which he spake unto us." Thus the stone faces.

She finds the eagle in the seven-beeth chapter of Ezekiel, where it said that an eagle rose, and settled among the merchants of the city, planted and sowed in the fields, but ultimately was vanquished.

115-Year-Old Indian Is Still Working His Farm

Watson, Wis.—Joe Lee, one hundred-and-fifteen-year-old Indian living near here, has earned the reputation of an excellent farmer among the younger tribesmen.

His corn crop was so superior last season that members of his tribe purchased their seed for this year's planting from him.

Nanchang's Modern Mayor Won His Post With Oil Can

Mayor H. S. Kung, of Nanchang, China, not only is an enthusiastic advocate of sports, but sets the example for his more than 400,000 constituents. At right, he is garbed for his favorite sport—tennis, but he demonstrates at left that he is quite capable of setting a mark at the broad-jump.

Nanchang, Kiangsi Province, China (AP).—When the short, stocky, energetic mayor of this interior city of China visits the United States this autumn, the American people will see a man who is thoroughly typical of the new order of government officials in China.

Mayor H. S. Kung was appointed by General Chiang Kai-Shek to his present post because of his ability to get things done and also, perhaps, because he carried none of the characteristics of China's former slow-moving, conservative official class.

Director in Coveralls

Kung was garbed in coveralls and was carrying an oil can when General Chiang met him for the first time, but that did not prevent the Generalissimo from recognizing the qualifications of the man. The meeting occurred when General Chiang was about to make his first trip over the Kiangsi-Nanchang railway, of which Kung was the director. In order to insure the safety of his distinguished passenger, Director Kung crawled under the puffing locomotive to check over its mechanism.

Since then, Kung's rise has been rapid, and today he is not only mayor of Nanchang—a city of 400,000—but also provincial commissioner of public works. He was largely responsible for the rehabilitation of this province after its recovery from the Communist armies which had held it for seven years.

In the United States, Mayor Kung will inspect the American system of highways and other public works. He says he will not leave the country until he has visited the Boulder Dam.

Improvements Many Since Kung took over his dual office here, less than four years ago, the province of Kiangsi has seen the construction of 3,500 miles of automobile highways, the planting of more than 10,000,000 trees, the establishment of an agricultural institute which gives training courses to farmers, the introduction of foreign livestock and farm implements into the rural areas and the founding of 1,300 farm cooperatives.

Mayor Kung is an enthusiastic advocate of modern sports and has established parks, playgrounds and athletic stadia for the people of this city. He is a graduate of Tokyo Imperial University and is but 40 years of age.

Opening of Schools Here on Tuesday

The grammar schools of the city will open for registration at the regular hour, 9 o'clock, on Tuesday, September 3. All parents of students entering school for the first time are requested to submit official birth record of student.

Contrary to the usual seasonal movement, manufacturing activity, as measured by total man-hours worked, was 0.5 per cent higher in July than in June, according to reports received by the National Industrial Conference Board from representative concerns in twenty-five manufacturing industries.

Our national income—the people's, not the government's—is now up to $50,000,000,000 a year, with only $20,000,000,000 more to go.

Alvin Karpis Seen At Saratoga, Is Report

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP).—Persistent reports spread through night resorts in Saratoga Springs today that Alvin Karpis, St. Paul's public enemy No. 1, has been "playing the races" here, and had escaped a federal trap on August 16. Both federal and city authorities denied any knowledge of Karpis' presence here.

Meanwhile, the Saratoga Springs Saratogian published what appears to be an account of the kidnaper's activity, and credited it to a "source close to federal operations." The newspaper declined to reveal this source.

The paper says that federal operatives and police surrounded an obscure farm house on Loughberry Lake near here on August 16, but learned that Karpis had disappeared six hours previously.

It was added that Karpis was arrested in Northampton, Mass., on August 18, and charged with a traffic violation, presumably under an assumed name. He was said to have posted $200 bond before a justice of the peace, and left town with his automobile. The Saratogian says fingerprints taken from the car were sent to Washington from Northampton, and were identified as those of Karpis.

Karpis is supposed to have spent three nights at the Loughberry farm house, taking in the races every day at Saratoga Springs. The night club reports have it that the western gangster dropped a good deal of money to the bookies at the Saratoga track during his stay.

According to the Saratogian's informant, Karpis went from Saratoga Springs to Boston on August 16, then to Providence, R. I., returning here a few days later. On his second visit he remained only one day, and disappeared.

Karpis is wanted for the notorious Bremer kidnapping in Minneapolis and other crimes.

Scholarship Winners In Ulster County

The University of the State of New York has awarded scholarships to five residents of Ulster county as follows:

Elizabeth C. Haynes, 100 Washington avenue, Saugerties, 94.761 per cent.

Marcia J. Brown, 85 Wurtz-street, Kingston, 94.285 per cent.

Madeline Berg, 347 Washington avenue, graduate of the Academy of St. Ursula, Maygrove, 93.583 per cent.

Robert Brown, Shokan, 92.952 per cent.

Jeanne Weinberger, 181 Canal street, Ellenville, 92.157 per cent.

There are issued to the pupils of each county five times as many scholarships as there are assembly districts of the county, except in New York city, where arrangements are different.

The number appointed is taken from the top of the list of those who receive college entrance diplomas. In case any one of these winners should decline the scholarship, it is immediately offered to the next eligible candidate on the county list.

The holder of one of these scholarships is entitled to $100 a year for the four years of the college course while attending any college in the state approved by the Regents for the purpose.

BUCK HAS COLLECTION OF 2,000 ANIMALS IN SHIPMENT

San Francisco, Aug. 29 (AP).—Frank Buck, the big game hunter, was not at all surprised when he was informed here today that his collection of monkeys had been cutting up at Massapequa, N. Y.

"Ingenious babies those monkeys," commented Buck when he stepped from the liner President Coolidge and was informed that his Massapequa pets had been absent without leave.

Buck, accompanied by his wife, arrived from the jungle thickets of northern India and Sumatra. The 2,000 animals he captured, Buck said, have been shipped to New York and should arrive there in a few days. He said he planned to leave for the east tonight to supervise the unloading.

Monkeys, tigers and snakes predominate in the new collection, the hunter stated. He said the prize capture was a pair of jungle buffalo known as beledangs, which he declared were the only ones in captivity.

British Warned To "Go Slow"

clude sending a large portion of the Italian fleet to Suez Canal waters in order to keep that channel open and powerful air concentration in Sicily and southern Italy facing Malta.

The communiqué is regarded as having placed the situation squarely up to Great Britain. The cabinet in one hand holds out an olive branch by saying Italy will not infringe upon the British imperial rights, but the other hand holds a threat of "the gravest complications" if Britain insists on sanctions.

The cabinet said a more extensive memorandum will be submitted to the League Council.

"This memorandum," the communiqué stated, "will be accompanied by small but most recent and well chosen literature by English, German and French writers, depicting Ethiopia as she is, in her chaotic condition of retrograde, slave-holding tribes, with non-existing central power."

"The Fascist government thinks her colonial question should not have reacted on the European situation unless one wishes to run the danger of letting loose a new world war in order to prevent a great power like Italy from bringing order to a vast country where the most atrocious slavery and the most primitive conditions of existence reign."

The cabinet decided on economic measures to finance the Ethiopian war. They include obligatory conversion of foreign credits and foreign bonds, devaluation of corporation dividends to 6 per cent, a 10 per cent tax on dividends and interests and the requirement that automobiles use substitutes for gasoline.

Haile Selassie Losing Faith In Geneva

Ethiopians how to use the machine guns, he said. Major Johnker has 4,000 European drilled infantry in his command and the most capable of whom are training large detachments of the 30,000 irregulars advanced to positions on the Ogaden front guarding the approaches.

Moslems (priests) will urge a union of Mohammedans and Christians "in this time of national peril" in their Friday prayer services in the mosques tomorrow. Fear of war brought about this unprecedented joining of the two sects.

Today's Cable Briefs
By Associated Press

Peiping, China.—The American legation today announced that as a result of the resurgence of red activity in northwestern Hunan Province where Ho Lung has penetrated the government lines, vacationing American missionaries are advised not to return to their posts in that area.

Berlin.—Arthur Guett, chief of the public health department, today told the German parliament congress that new legislation is being drafted in the Reich making compulsory a health examination for all marrying persons.

Bled, Yugoslavia.—The problem of Russia occupied the members of the Little Entente—Yugoslavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia—at the opening of its conference today. Dr. Eduard Benes, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, and M. Titulescu, Rumanian foreign minister, are expected to attempt to persuade Premier Milan Stoyadinovich toward recognition of Russia.

Tokyo.—Forty-two persons are dead or missing today, scores injured and tens of thousands of homes inundated from a typhoon from the South Sea that lashed Japan's largest cities. The Kobe district, where 20 were killed and 44 injured, suffered the worst damage.

New Members in Stop
Sign Passers' Club

Seven new members were added to the Colonial Chapter of the Stop Sign Passers' Club on Wednesday. Six of the new members paid the dues of $2 each when arraigned before Judge Culliton in police court who imposed fines of that amount on each one. The seventh member, Leon Van Vleet of Circleville, Ohio, forfeited $5 cash bail by failure to appear in court. The other six were Samuel Plasmannoff of 281 Clinton avenue; Percy Mower of R.F.D., Kingston; Ivan McKane of 543 Albany avenue; Edmund J. Moore of 52 Lafayette avenue; and Arthur Taylor of Merrick, N. Y.

William Colfesh, 30, of Oakley, N. Y., arrested on a vagrancy charge last night told Judge Culliton that he was on his way home when picked up. He was given the opportunity to continue his interrupted journey. Gladys Jesse Parlielen, 17, of Tupper Lake, arrested on a technical charge of disorderly conduct when found walking along Albany avenue at 4 o'clock the other morning, was given a suspended sentence. When picked up here she told a strange tale of being assaulted by four men at Lake Placid and that she had hitch hiked to Kingston.

Infantile Paralysis
Cases in New York

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP).—A total of 219 new cases of infantile paralysis in New York state since last Saturday was reported by the State Department of Health today. Of this number 172 were in New York city and 47 upstate.

A total of 325 cases was reported last week, of which 285 were in the Greater City and 40 upstate.

The reports for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of this week showed 11 new cases in Westchester county, 10 in Nassau county and nine in Fulton county. Of the Fulton county cases, four were in Johnstown and 5 in Gloversville. The health department said that the county grouping of Wednesday's cases was not complete.

From the first of the year up to Tuesday night 1,145 cases of the disease have been reported, 950 in New York and 195 upstate.

Health department officials said that while the number of cases in the Greater City were above the normal average, the upstate total was only slightly in excess of the last non-epidemic year, 1933. As compared with the epidemic of 1916, this year's cases amount to only about 10 per cent of those of 19 years ago.

Water Traps Bar, 8 Drowned. Dragons, Ariz., Aug. 29 (AP).—Three persons were drowned near here late last night when an eight foot wall of water trapped a bus at a railway underpass. Two others were believed today to have perished. The floodwater, caused by clouds burst, caught the bus as the driver waited for water to recede in the underpass.

ATTENTION!
ULSTER COUNTY TAXPAYERS

Taxpayers in the various towns are urged to pay their taxes for the present year to the County Treasurer's office during the next three days of September. The taxes are being paid in advance of the regular date of payment. Failure to do so will result in the taxes being placed in arrears and the taxpayer being liable for the same.

ARCHITECTS SEARCH
FOR BUILDING STONEMarble Highly Valued From Earliest Times.

Washington.—One of the most strikingly beautiful buildings in Washington is the new United States Supreme court building. Its exterior is fabricated from white marble, while its interior is enhanced with columns and panels of the same stone but richly colored.

"Among the most ornamental of all building stones, marble has been valued by architects from earliest times," says the National Geographic society.

"White drums of marble from Mt. Pentelicon reared toward the clear blue sky of Athens, the graceful temples on the Acropolis. Domed Byzantine structures and Roman buildings were studded with mosaics of vari-colored marbles, veined and mottled. Visitors to the Pantheon may tread on a marble floor polished by the padings of august Romans over 1,800 years ago.

Favored by Sculptors.

"Not only has marble been a popular building stone, but it is the favorite among sculptors. From it Phidias, Praxiteles, Canova, and many other artists carved their masterpieces. Carrara, in northwestern Italy, which supplied Michelangelo with marble for his famous statue of David, still supplies modern sculptors with some of their finest working material. In Carrara, a city of quarries and marble cutting factories, even the humblest homes have white marble thresholds and steps.

"The most beautiful foreign marbles come from Italy, the French Pyrenees, and Belgium. In the United States, marbles underlie most of the eastern mountains from Vermont to Georgia, and part of the Rocky mountains. Vermont supplies 60 per cent of the amount quarried in this country.

"Marble is merely an altered form of limestone, transformed by heat and strong pressure. Limestone is much softer than marble.

"Limestone is found in many colors ranging from pink and red, through yellow to green and blue. From quarries in Indiana and Kentucky comes the variety best known in the United States.

"Although limestone is durable, it deteriorates under acids in the air and rain, especially under the sulphuric acid contaminating the air of cities. How waters containing chemicals affect the stone is dramatically shown in Mammoth Cave, Kentucky, where subterranean streams have eaten away the beds of limestone, hollowing out vast underground caverns.

Granite is Valuable.

"Granite, igneous rock that has cooled, is a building stone valued for its hardness, strength, and durability. Unlike limestone, it is little affected by chemicals in the air and rain, but abrupt changes in temperature frequently cause it to crack. In regions where the temperature drops 80 degrees in a day, granite has been known to shatter into boulders, gravel, and sand.

"Because it is so hard, the cost of cutting and polishing granite once prohibited its use except in a roughly dressed state. But now that less expensive methods have been discovered, it is one of the most popular building stones.

"Porphyry, another igneous rock, usually a beautiful red in color, was prized by the Romans, but is little employed by modern architects, because of the difficulty and expense in cutting and polishing it.

"New York city's famous 'brownstone fronts' are made of sandstone, a popular building stone composed of grains of sand held together by a cementing material.

"The new air-conditioned home of the National Geographic society contains stones from many states and foreign countries. Its front steps are of pink and gray North Carolina granite. Limestone blocks and columns of the facade came from Bedford, Ind., and green marble spondyls from the French Alps.

"In the foyer gleam reddish-brown pillars and pilasters of polished Rojo Alicante marble from Spain. Walls are of lustrous Italian Botticino marble, a rich cream color, above a base of Belgian black marble. Brown Siena and gray Roman travertine form a large eight-pointed star in the floor."

Potatoes and Tomatoes
Growing on Same Vine

Lufkin, Texas.—J. O. Burt, farmer, living near Alta, believes he is well on his way toward raising potato-tomato vines.

In 1928 Burt planted a field of tomatoes. Last year he planted the same field of potatoes. This year he planted tomatoes again, and was surprised to find that some of the vines bore a strange fruit. The vines had potatoes on the roots and tomatoes on the stems.

Colorful Wildflower Is Found in Nevada Hills

Fallen, Nev.—A new species of poppy, gorgeous, larger than the California poppy and yellow in color, appeared this year in the hills around the old mining camp of Wonder. Prospector say they have never before seen this plant. Varieties have also appeared along the Lincoln Highway, but only in masses of single color, but in this case, blue, yellow, pink, and white interspersed.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

Miss Sophie Schindler will resume teaching her piano class and also her children's singing classes on Tuesday, Sept. 3rd. New pupils can call at 311 Washington Ave., or phone 2797.

NEW YORK CITY PRODUCE MARKET

Both adjoining congressmen and visitors in Washington were not a little startled to see this person walking about the capital buildings. He is Raymond Carr of Sewell, N. J., who claims he is a relative of Abraham Lincoln, the Civil war president he so resembles. (Associated Press Photo)

NEW PALMS

New Palms, Aug. 29.—Miss Helena A. Gerow is spending the remainder of her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gerow in town.

Howard B. Hoffman and family have returned from their vacation. Marion Wiseman is spending some time in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Palmer entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Palmer of Yonkers and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Teller and daughter, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Osterhout of Walden and Edward Miller were Sunday evening guests of Herman C. Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli DuBois spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Martin at Milton.

Miss Stiles McKenna and sons, William and John, of Eltinge avenue are spending a few days with relatives in Webster.

Frederick E. Heinsohn is one of 12 New York University summer school students to be elected to membership in the School of Education Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national professional education fraternity.

Mr. Heinsohn is teacher in vocational guidance in New Palms High School. Camp St. Agnes minstrel show will be presented Saturday evening, August 31, in the High School auditorium. There will also be a dance.

Miss Myrna Wiseman is spending the summer at Lake Minnewaska. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wright and daughter, Mrs. Edmund Wager, and her son, Edmund, Jr., spent last week-end at Walton, Delaware county.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ashton and daughter have returned from spending a week with her sister, Miss Lizette Quick, in Amsterdam.

Mr. and Mrs. George Boettiger entertained the Pinocchio Club at their home Tuesday evening.

The information bureau office on Main street closed on Saturday for the season.

Helen and Jean Eltinge have been spending a few days with their grandfather, Luther Wilklow, in Highland.

Dr. Homer Stephens, who has been in St. Luke's Hospital receiving treatment for injuries received in an automobile accident, has returned home to Walden.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Oakley have returned from camping in Dutchess county.

Miss Bertha O. Metcalf and her mother spent Monday in Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Haggelbloom and baby of New York are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gardner.

Dennis Williams and Frank Williams attended the Orange County Fair at Middletown last week.

Miss Kathryn Wiseman, who has been spending a short vacation at her home, returned to her duties in the Benedictine Hospital Tuesday night.

The Seekers' Class and Home Department of the Methodist Church met at the home of their class teacher, Mrs. Wayne Wiseman, at the "Ox-Bow" Tuesday afternoon, August 27. The president, Mrs. Morgan Contant, presided and opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Harry Oakley led the devotion, which began by singing "Take Time to be Holy." Mrs. Oakley then read Romans 12:9-12, and a reading, "What Life Is," and closed with reading a prayer. The business session followed, which consisted of roll call, minutes of the last meeting, treasurer's report and several other reports, also communications, including letters from India and Kentucky.

Mrs. Emma Silkworth took charge of the study period by reading the third chapter from the study book, after which Mrs. Arthur Ingraham entertained by teaching the group a game. After closing with the Mizpah benediction the remainder of the afternoon was spent in celebrating the birthdays of Mrs. Wiseman and Mrs. Frank McCaul. There was a large birthday cake, presented by the class and Home Department, and Mrs. Wiseman, assisted by her daughter, Miss Kathryn Wiseman, served tea and cookies. A very enjoyable time was had by the following who were present: Mrs. Morgan Contant, Miss Lila Paris, Miss Bertha Metcalf, Mrs. Minnie Duryea, Mrs. Amos Rooma, Mrs. Frank McCaul, Mrs. Frank Elliott and daughter, Grace, Mrs. Arthur Ingraham, Mrs. Walter Smith, Mrs. Raymond Haggelbloom, Mrs. Harry Oakley, Mrs. Frank Guinac, Miss Dora Allen, Mrs. Emma Silkworth, Mrs. Webb Kniffen, Mrs. Wayne Wiseman and Miss Kathryn Wiseman. Those appointed to take charge of the September meeting are Mrs. Wayne Wiseman, devotion; Miss Bertha Metcalf, the study period; and Mrs. Amos Rooma, the amusement.

Two of last June's graduates from the Marlborough High School have made arrangements to enter college this fall. Virginia Harberich will matriculate at Mount Saint Vincent in New York city and will enter September 17. Doris Hines will enter William Smith College at Geneva on September 8. Both girls are to take regular liberal arts courses.

The Marlborough Grange Growers' Association met last Thursday evening in St. Mary's Hall. The association will continue to meet but nothing was done in regard to price fixing.

The Auburn car belonging to Richard Moore, who is employed in the A. & P. store, was involved in an accident last Wednesday evening in Newburgh. Young Moore, accompanied by Miss Viola Scott and Patrick Newell, was northbound on S.W. when his car collided with a Mid-dletown car at the intersection of South and Robinson avenues. No one was seriously hurt, although the Auburn was badly scratched and was taken to Galloway's garage in Newburgh, where it was estimated the cost to repair it would be about $125.

New Rose Dagan has resumed her duties in the office of Justice Rock after enjoying two weeks' vacation.

Look for Record Crowd At Community Dance

A special orchestra of 14 pieces, with Roger Best conducting, will be a feature of the community dance to be held at the Municipal Auditorium next Monday night—Labor Day night.

A year ago the attendance at the Labor Day dance at the Auditorium broke the record for the season, over 500 being present. The building committee of the town council, which has charge of these Monday night community dances, is looking forward to a record crowd next Monday night.

Children Need Cuticura

To keep skin and scalp clean and in good condition. The soap, delicately medicated and mildly antiseptic, protects as well as cleanses, the skin—removes dandruff, soothes and relieves the itching of rashes, pimples and eruptions.

Funerals, Weddings Are

Quite Abke in Peiping

The streets of Peiping, China, are a continuous and colorful spectacle. You see persons with astonishing physiognomies, in costumes beautiful and bizarre, and engaged in unusual occupations. They are flowing lines of traffic—sauntering pedestrians, hurrying rich-shaws, awkward wheelbarrows, low, two-wheeled trucks hauled by a dozen coolies and unmercifully loaded. Late model motor cars dash in and out among old Pekin carts and smart little carriages drawn by small but sturdy Mongolian ponies. Up and down the main avenue move tramcars, English in style of structure, but American in the manner of clanging gongs.

Funerals and weddings add interest to the ever moving panorama, writes a correspondent in the Chicago Tribune. The artificial flowers, the uniformed participants, the banners, the drums and trumpets and cymbals, the priests, the brilliant and startling colors, the slow marches, the weird music—all are much the same for both funeral and wedding, and a foreigner does not know which he is witnessing until the canopy enclosed coffin or the curtained sedan chair of the bride passes him. The distinguishing object, if it be a coffin, may be borne on bamboo poles by as many as 64 carriers, each with a relief man marching by his side—a total of 128 coffin bearers. When a funeral turns a corner, or when the procession stops for tea on the way, "devil money" is thrown into the air. The evil spirits stop to gather up this largesse, and the soul of the departed is thus assured a more peaceful journey.

Mayflower's Passengers

Were Booked by Families

The Mayflower when it arrived at Plymouth, Mass., December 21, 1620, after a two months' voyage from Southampton, England, states a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer, had the following male passengers who landed with their families:

Allerton, John; Bradford, William; Brewster, William; Britten, Richard; Brown, Peter; Curver, John; Child, James; Clarke, Richard; Cook, Francis; Crakston, John; Doty, Edward; Eaton, Francis; English, Thomas; Fletcher, Moses; Fuller, Edward; Fuller, Samuel; Gardiner, Richard; Goodman, John; Hopkins, Stephen; Howland, John; Lester, Edward; Margeson, Edward; Martin, Christopher; Mullins, William; Priest, Thomas; Rigdale, John; Rogers, Thomas; Soule, George; Standish, Miles; Tilly, Edward; Tily, John; Tinker, Thomas; Turner, John; Warren, Richard; White, William; Williams, Thomas; Winslow, Edward; Winslow, Gilbert.

There were fifteen male servants on the Mayflower whose names were: Carter, Coper, Ely, Holbeck, Hooker, Langmore, Latham, Minter, Moore, Prower, Sampson, Story, Thompson, Trevor, Wilder.

Ancient Sweden

Before the year 1250 the constitution of the English parliament—consisting of barons, clergy, knights of the shire, and burgesses—had been completely established, and its power to control taxation was acknowledged by King Edward I. It is the undoubted Mother of Parliaments, but the Swedish Riksdag some time ago marked, by a series of festivities, its five hundredth anniversary, and so may claim to be second in precedence in the world. Tradition says that it began in 1435 in the little town of Arboga, 80 miles west of Stockholm, when Engelbrekt, the popular leader of his age, summoned a meeting of bishops, knights, squires, townsmen, and peasants to help him throw off the yoke of Denmark. The inclusion of the peasantry renders this call unique, for it was not until late in the last century that Britain rose to that standard of democracy. Sweden's written constitution dates from 1810, and in this, with the one exception of America, the possessor of the oldest written constitution in the world—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Provincialism

A provincialism is a term of expression that is current in a certain locality but that is not known in, perhaps, an adjacent locality, says Literary Digest. Peculiarities of expression that distinguish a Scot from an Englishman, a Cockney Londoner from a Sheffielder, or in the United States, a New Englander from a Midwesterner, a Southerner from a Northerner, a Texan from a "dove-Easter" Maine citizen, are all grouped under the general classification of provincialisms, sometimes referred to as dialectisms.

New

Now is the constant syllable ticking from the clock of time. Now is the watchword of the wise. Now is the banner of the prophet. Let us keep this little word always in our minds, and whenever anything presents itself to us in the shape of work, whether mental or physical, we should do it with all our might, remembering that Now is the only time for us—that Now is ours; that There may never be.

156th Soldiers Will Be Home on Friday

Contrary to custom, Kingston's units of the 156th Field Artillery, New York National Guard, leave Pine Camp Friday morning instead of Saturday. Matthew Bence has been informed by Major O. R. Hiltbrant. Reason for moving the troops out of the summer training reservation a day earlier than usual is to prevent congestion, according to official announcements. The Guardsmen from Kingston will return by taxi, the same way they were transported to camp, arriving Friday about 6 p. m. The maneuvers this year at Pine Camp were the most extensive ever conducted by the National Guard. Major Hiltbrant seemed highly pleased with Kingston's part in the Great mock war, according to Armorer Bence.

The Loyden Jar

Various forms of machines were developed for the purpose of producing electricity by means of friction. In 1790, Francis Hauksbee mounted a glass globe on a shaft and geared it so that it could be rotated at high speed. Friction was produced by holding the palm of the hand on the spinning globe. Such devices produced an electric charge of considerable strength, which was, however, available only when the machines were in operation.

About 1760, Ronald George van Kleef and Peter van Nieuwenhove, working independently, performed experiments which led to the invention of the "Leyden jar." This was a glass vessel, with inside and outside coatings of lead, by means of which a charge of electricity from a frictional machine could be accumulated and later released by making a connection between the two coatings.

GEORGE H. DAWKINS

State Should Give Up Control of Supplies, Prices, States Lehman

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP).—The state should withdraw from emergency regulation of supplies and control of prices as soon as the emergencies have passed, Governor Herbert H. Lehman declared in an address at the Syracuse State Fair today.

The governor's declaration came as he discussed the state's assistance to agriculture.

"What is the proper relation between the state government and agriculture?" he asked.

"It seems to me," he continued, "that in New York the state's responsibility is primarily to provide research as is done at the state college in Ithaca, and the experiment station at Geneva; to aid in providing agricultural teaching, as is done through the 4-H Club, the agricultural high schools and the state colleges. And this annual fair, to extend the new teachings of agriculture to farm men and women through the extension service; and to provide controls of purity, quality, grades and diseases as is done through the state department of agriculture and markets.

"In emergency times the state is urged to go much further than this, to establish control of prices, regulation of supplies and restrictions on movement and distribution of products. These may be justified and even necessary in times of great economic distress but we should be careful that we do not project emergency measures into permanent activities.

"Government for the long pull can only help and direct—it never can take the place of individual initiative nor reverse sound economic laws.

"It should be the policy of the state to withdraw from emergency regulation and control as soon as emergencies have passed and to foster and stimulate voluntary action on the part of farmers, dealers and consumers to solve these problems for themselves without state intervention.

Los Angeles, Aug. 29 (AP).—Will Rogers' untold wealth was left to his widow, Mrs. Betty Blake Rogers.

The last will of the famous humorist, written just two days before he flew away from Los Angeles to join Wiley Post on their fatal air journey to Alaska, was filed for probate here late yesterday.

The document, executed in simple language, contained about 275 words. "I give, devise and bequeath all of my property, both community and otherwise, unto my said wife, Betty Rogers," it read in part.

While the comedian's fortune has been estimated at amounts ranging from $2,500,000 to as high as $5,000,000, the probate value merely put it "in excess of $10,000," the usual description in such cases.

Final legal steps in connection with the will will be taken September 16, when a routine hearing will be held in Superior court.

The will provided that the estate be divided in event of Mrs. Rogers' death between the three Rogers children—Will, Jr., 23; Mary, 22, and James, 20.

Queen Astrid Of Belgium Killed which stands at the head of a small bay of the lake "Vier Waldstatter See," near the spot where the legendary William Tell was reputed to have shot the tyrant Gessler.

At the villa, the reception room was cleared and the queen's body, in its casket, was placed on black-draped trestles. Candles were arranged and the members of the household took up the death watch.

The king, suffering not only emotional shock but cuts and bruises, was ordered by Dr. Steinhilber, the physician who had rendered him first aid, to go to bed.

Doctors found the chauffeur's legs were broken and that he was so badly bruised, possibly internally, that he may die.

A further investigation at the scene of the accident showed that a large stone at the roadside may have been the cause. When the king looked up at the scenery, the car turned to the edge of the road, striking the stone. It was believed probable that the impact was so violent the occupants were thrown out.

At the spot, the road is only 8 feet from the lake, and the car ran down a slight decline to the water.

King Just Arrived.

The queen, with her two small children had been at Lucerne for several weeks. The king had just arrived.

The third child, Baby Prince Albert, remained in Brussels. Queen Astrid would have been 30 on November 17. She was married almost nine years.

Queen Astrid and King Leopold were vacationing in the Alps when King Albert was killed while mountain climbing.

Belgium In Deep Grief

Brussels, Belgium, Aug. 29 (AP).—Tiny Belgium was plunged into deepest grief for the second time in less than two years by reports of the tragic death of Queen Astrid near Lucerne, Switzerland, where she had gone with the king for a holiday.

King Albert, the beloved ruler who had heroically led the nation through the darkest days of the world war, was killed while mountain climbing at Marche Les Dames, February 17, 1934.

Queen Astrid, beautiful Swedish Princess who was barely past 21 when she married Leopold, then the Belgian Crown Prince, Duke of Brabant, quickly won her way into the hearts of the Belgians.

Her home life and her solicitude for the nation's poor and distressed brought her the admiration from high and low of the little nation.

Count attaches recount recently how she spent many hours with her own hands speeding distribution of relief supplies to economic sufferers, especially among the distressed of the mining areas.

The Belgian housewives and mothers had taken Astrid as their national model. She was especially adept with the needle and enjoyed cooking.

Brussels mothers on a number of occasions have seen the Queen pushing a perambulator through the public park airing the Royal Baby just like any commoner mother in the capital.

The day after she came to Belgium in 1926 as Leopold's bride, Astrid accompanied her husband at the annual solemn ceremony at the tomb of the unknown soldier.

This simple gesture endeared her immediately to the Belgians whose memory of the world war days still is vivid.

By a tragic coincidence, Astrid met her death in the country in which she and Leopold were vacationing when informed of the death of Leopold's father, Albert.

Leopold had been enjoying his skiing holiday when the urgent message from Brussels brought him the fatal news of his father's death, and that he had become the king of the Belgians.

The chief of the foreign ministry, tears welling in his eyes, released to the public confirmation of the news received from Lucerne.

The Queen is Dead.

Maintaining his composure with difficulty, the official whispered: "Yes, it's true. The queen is dead."

Government officials were overwhelmed when they learned of the news.

The first reports to reach Brussels, which spread like wildfire from mouth to mouth, was that both the king and queen had been killed.

The official government announcement, however, informed the nation that their beloved king had been injured, but not seriously.

Queen Mother Elizabeth, who was the object of nationwide sympathy since the tragedy early last year which broke her health, still is in Pisa, Italy, where she has been for several months, seeking to regain her strength.

The news continued spreading from neighbor to neighbor, soon reaching the outskirts of the city where housewives ran from door to door carrying the word to those Belgians who had neither radio nor telephone.

Incredulity at first greeted the news, but the appearance of newspapers soon brought confirmation of the accident in Switzerland.

Crowds Gather in Streets.

Crowds soon gathered in the streets and public squares discussing in whispers the nation's latest grief.

Extras were grabbed from the hands of newsmen. Many Belgians refused to believe the news until they had seen the black type which chronicled it.

The cabinet meeting was definitely set for early afternoon. The ministers, called to the capital, started rushing back.

Theatres quickly posted notices saying there would be no further performances until further advice.

It was expected that one of the cabinet's first actions would be the proclamation of a national period of mourning, perhaps for six months.

A huge crowd quickly gathered outside the palace. Women were weeping and some of the bareheaded men had tears on their faces.

The official notice tacked on the palace gates by a functionary were read out in hushed voices by those standing nearest to the gate. The words were repeated and passed on to those standing behind until the whispered word had reached the fringes of the mourning crowd.

The STANDINGS

By The Associated Press

The recent performance of a couple of young pitchers strengthened the impression that the Cardinals and Tigers again will meet in the world series this fall.

The Cards have Ed Housner, who was almost relegated to the minors this season but stayed to become an important factor in their drive to first place. The Tigers have Roxie Lawson, who was farmed out to Toledo and came back a few days ago to give the regulars a hand.

Housner checked the Phillies 5 to 1 yesterday to help the Cards along to a double triumph that put them 2½ games ahead of New York.

Giving the Phils eight hits, Housner would have had a shutout if George Watkins hadn't belted a homer in the first inning. The Cards next hammered out a 13 to 5 decision, coming from behind with a great nine-run rally in the sixth. Pepper Martin, who hit for the circuit in the opener, did the trick again with the bases loaded and Jim Collins followed with a circuit swat with two aboard.

Giants Lose Two

Meanwhile the second-place Giants took a double drubbing from Pittsburgh's Pirates, losing 6 to 1 to Cy Blanton's five-hit tossing, then going down 9 to 5 when Earl Grace slammed a boundary belt with three on base to overcome an early New York lead.

Lawson blanked the Athletics with four blows. The Tigers won 11 to 0.

Detroit's lopsided triumph didn't increase the Tiger lead, because the Yankees trimmed the Chicago White Sox in both ends of a bargain bill, 9 to 1 and 5 to 2. Johnny Allen and Charley Ruffing turned in a pair of fine mound performances and Lou Gehrig clouted his 27th homer.

Cubs Lose Away Chance

The Cubs lost a great chance to overhaul the Giants in the National League struggle when they divided a twin bill with the Braves. Wally Berger's 28th homer and Ben Cantwell's four-hit flinging gave Boston a 2 to 1 decision in the opener, but Chicago came back behind Lon Warneke to win 5 to 2.

Brooklyn won the other National League clash, beating the Reds 4 to 2. Only 503 cash customers were there to see it.

The Indians took a firmer hold on third place in the junior circuit, beating the Red Sox 2 to 0 as Thornton Lee outpitched Bob Grove, then winning 3 to 1 behind Mel Harder.

Washington and St. Louis divided their twin bill, the Senators battling out a 10 to 2 triumph behind Ed Linke and the Browns winning a speedy second game 2 to 1 as Ivy Andrews and Jack Russell both pitched six-hit ball.

Yesterday's STARS

(By The Associated Press.)

Jim Collins, Terry Moore and Pepper Martin, Cardinals—Collins and Moore made six hits each and Martin clouted homers as Cards took doubleheader from Philles.

Thorne Lee and Joe Vosmik, Indians—Lee blanked Red Sox with four hits in opener; Vosmik made five hits in two games.

Ben Cantwell, Braves, and Lon Warneke gave seven hits as Cubs split twin bill.

Jack Saltzberger, Yankees—Pounded Chicago pitcher for five hits, including homer, in double victory.

Cy Blanton and Earl Grace, Pirates—Blanton limited Giants to five hits in first game; Grace clouted homer with bases full in second.

Roxie Lawson, Tigers—Shut out Athletics with four hits and fanned four.

Ray Benge, Dodgers—Scattered eight Cincinnati hits and drove in one run to gain 4-2 decision.

Ed Linke, Senators, and Ivy Andrews, Browns—Pitched brilliantly to break even in doubleheader.

Forsts Will Play at Napanoch on Sunday

The Forsts Foremost team of the City Baseball League will travel out to Napanoch for a game this Sunday. All members are to meet at the Crystal Gardens at 1 p. m.

A week from Sunday they will cross bats with the Newark Free Champions of New Jersey, at the Kingston Fair Grounds.

Better "Gate" On Coast

Portland (AP)—Attendance at the home games of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League this year so far has increased approximately 80 per cent over the total for the 1934 season. In mid-August, admissions totaled 82,936 in comparison with a season total of only 51,900 last year. Nearly a fourth of the 1934 attendance was on the opening day when 12,065 persons filed into the Beavers' park.

University of California's football squad will have two sets of brothers, Bob and Jack Brittingham, ends, and Chuck and Ken Cotton, backs.

'I SAY IT WAS A FOUL'

Vociferous Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, is shown in this unusual picture as he clenched his fists while protesting to Umpire Donnelly against the latter's decision in a game between the Yankees and the White Sox at Chicago. Donnelly called Conlon's long hit a foul and then changed his mind. Yankee players look on. (Associated Press Photo)

Wally Moses Chosen Best Major Rookie

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—The cheerful bit of news today for Wally Moses, sensational young outfielder of the Philadelphia Athletics whose career was abruptly checked by an arm fracture, is that the baseball experts consider him the outstanding major league rookie of the 1935 season.

This distinction goes to the Texas League recruit, not as any consolation prize, but on the merits of his freshman performance in rivalry with one of the greatest crops of first-year regulars developed in years.

Twenty-eight players, playing regularly this year for the first time if not actually getting their first peek of the big show, received mention in a pool conducted by the Associated Press to determine opinion on the outstanding rookies.

Moses received 28 votes of a maximum of 63 cast by major league writers. The speedy young outfielder, who broke into the A's lineup on opening day and had a batting mark of .326 for 85 games when he broke his arm in Chicago nearly two weeks ago, enjoyed a comfortable margin over all other fychasers, including Hank Leiber of the Giants, who collected 14 votes.

Clyde Castleman, young right-hander of the Giants, was voted the year's outstanding rookie pitcher in a close contest with Pittsburgh's brilliant Darrell (Cy) Blanton. Castleman won, 24 to 19, and was the nearest rival of Moses in total vote.

Distinction as the outstanding recruit infielder goes to Lou (Bozie) Berger, Cleveland second baseman and a New Orleans graduate, with 15 votes, emerged on top in another close contest, leading Jimmy Bucher of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Phil Cavarretta, young first sacker of the Chicago Cubs, who finished with 12 and 11, respectively.

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT.

(By The Associated Press.)

Long Branch, N. J.—Jack Donovan, 223, drew with Fred Grubmeier, 210, Iowa.

Detroit—Orville Brown, 218, Wallace, Kans., defeated Bob Wagner, 212, Seattle, one fall.

It's Now Up to the Chicago Bears

Chicago, Aug. 29 (AP)—It's up to the Chicago Bears tonight.

Once more they will attempt to prove—something they couldn't do a year ago—that a good professional football team can whip a prize band of college stars.

Last year to their great surprise and greater chagrin, they had to settle for a scoreless tie.

Tonight at 7:30 (Central Standard time) they will tackle the college All Stars picked by the fans as the senior standouts of the 1934 campaign before a throng of 85,000 at Soldier Field. Their task figures to be no easier than it was a year ago.

All parts of the country have sent their greatest stars against the professionals. The announcement of the probable battlefronts gave the Bears a large physical edge. The line named by Coach George Halas averages 219 pounds. The backs, Bernie Masterson, Seattle Feathers, Johnny Sisk and Jack Manders, average 204.

The All Star lineup, tentatively named by Frank Thomas of Alabama, head of the board of strategy, has a line averaging 195 pounds, with the backs averaging three pounds less.

Thomas' plans called for Miller Munjas, Pittsburgh, at quarterback, with Bill Shepherd of Western Maryland, who topped the nation's scorers last season, and Al Nichol of St. Mary's, at the halves, and Stan Kostka, Minnesota's pile-driving fullback, to complete the quartet.

Buddy Baer Favored To Defeat Doyle

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Taking no chance of being defeated by the second time by Jupiter Pluvius, those two cronies of the fight ring, Buddy Baer and Ireland's Jack Doyle, will move into Madison Square Garden tonight for their six-round engagement. The fight originally was scheduled to be held in the garden's bowl last week but was rained out.

Baer, who has been training faithfully at Speculator, N. Y., where his elder brother, Max, is preparing for an engagement with Joe Louis, is the 13 to 5 favorite to whip the pride of the Irish.

Heartley (Hunk) Anderson, former Notre Dame coach and player, has returned to Raleigh, N. C., to begin football preparations at State College, after a visit to South Bend, Ind.

Eddie Scherer to Oppose Chick in City League Series

When the City League series gets started at the Athletic Field Saturday afternoon, two of the youngest teams—Hercules and Berardis—ever to enter the series will be meeting. In other years teams with more experienced players reached the final. Although Hercules' club is comprised of young players, they have one vet, Eddie Scherer, who they depend on to carry them through to victory. Eddie pitches them from the portside and is noted for his quick delivery and numerous hooks.

Jimmy Martin, another southpaw, also will be ready for action. Julius Chick undoubtedly will be Berardis' starting pitcher. He has a record of four wins and one defeat for the season. His understudy will be "Spot" Cullen, who gained fame when he beat the fast-stepping Formosts.

Hercules Practice Friday Afternoon. Manager George Walker of the Hercules has called a practice session for his players at the Athletic Field, Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. He wants all his players on the field, especially his pitchers, to give the hitters batting practice.

Kingston-Woodstock Tennis Is Postponed

The tennis match between the Kingston Tennis Club and Woodstock, to have been played at the Twaalfskill Courts yesterday afternoon, was postponed until next week. This is the second time that the match has been called off. The original date had been set for a week ago yesterday but the match was rained out.

Manager Fowler is trying to arrange for the contest to be played on next Wednesday or Thursday.

Hercules Team Will Practice on Friday

Manager George Walker of the Hercules Power nine announced this morning that he would like the members of the team to report for practice at the Athletic Field on Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Fifteen thousand persons witnessed the Indian tribes' war canoe race at Coupeville, Wash., in which ten boats competed.

Mary Lou Petty poses with a smile at Coronado, Calif., after breaking two world's records and swimming on a relay team that shattered another in the Pacific coast championships. She's a member of the Washington athletic club's team and is considered a strong contender for the U. S. Olympic team. (Associated Press Photo)

WORLD TENSE AS LEAGUE SURVEYS ITALO-ETHIOPIAN CRISIS

A tense world awaits the action of the League of Nations on the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, fearing an inevitable war if a settlement is not reached. Much attention has centered on the diplomats above, who, as members of the League council, will receive the report of conciliators on the problem. France, represented by Pierre Laval (center) is split between allegiance to England and Italy. England, represented by Anthony Eden (right), has sought continuously to effect a peaceful settlement, while Italy, represented by Baron Aloisi (left), has so far refused a peaceful solution. Russia, represented by Maxim Litvinoff (lower left), through its governmental policy disapproves of colonization wars, such as Italy has expressed intentions of waging, while the Little Entente, represented by Eduard Benes (lower right) has been vitally interested in the question, its welfare being generally tied up in that of Europe's larger nations. The background setting is of the League meeting hall in Geneva. (Associated Press Photos)

Welding

... the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces
of metal is by welding them
together.

... and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco ...

That is just what we do in making
CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish.
When these tobaccos are welded

together you get a combined flavor
which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right
amounts of the right kind of tobac-
cos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder
and better-tasting cigarette.

Chesterfield... the cigarette that's MILDER
Chesterfield... the cigarette that TASTES BETTER
